

POLICE NO OBJECTION CERTIFICATE (NOC)

FOR MARRIAGE

According to records available at the Supreme Court of India website, there are currently more than 44 million cases (4.4 crores) pending in Indian courts. As of April 2021, the number of pending cases in the Supreme Court are around 62000, more than five and half million cases in High courts (57.53 lakhs) and more than 38 million (3.81 crores) cases in lower courts.

One of the primary reasons for such a backlog is Frivolous litigations, nexus between police, lawyers and judges. Specially they favour vested interests who are promoting false cases and vexatious litigations. Since our laws have lots of loopholes and are biased, there is no fear of abusing the process of law or judiciary in the vexatious litigants. It is a fun ride for any malicious litigant without any fear of repercussion of any sorts especially if the litigant is a woman. The impact of this tsunami of false cases is that the genuine cases never see the light of the day and are buried deep down with an endless trial. While this fun ride for malicious litigants continues at the expense of innocent respondents abusing judicial process, it not only delays the justice but also ruins an innocent person's life and career including his family, relatives, etc. The grip of vested interests, biased laws and corrupt judicial and police system is of such an extent that even politicians or wealthy movie star cannot escape from this pandemic of LEGAL TERRORISM.

Recently Judiciary comes up with some new development, and eCourts is one of them. e-Courts project envisions a judicial system that is more accessible. e-Courts, Digitalisation, CIS software, e-filing, digitally enabled hearings or virtual court is not a BAD idea it will speedup judicial process and easy access for litigants but it will not help to reduce Frivolous litigations.

In this article we are suggesting a solution to fix / prevent frivolous litigations, especially those related to matrimonial issues and disputes. We suggest to make it mandatory for all who are planning to marry by submitting an affidavit to the police with personal bio-data, dowry, gifts to be exchanged by both the parties, details of expenses, agreements if any, etc. Police will verify all the facts and issue a NOC for the marriage. We have an example of such an affidavit and it is shown below. If the law makers of India or the Supreme Court make this process mandatory, a lot of frivolous cases will stop in the future. This will drastically reduce all matrimonial cases such as dowry, fraud, breach of trust, and other matrimonial false cases.

We believe that prevention is better than cure. We have made the example affidavit keeping in view the present situation and we hope that if such provisions are implemented it will nullify all future frivolous matrimonial litigations and reduce the burden of backlog of cases in the courts.
