Equality, Justice and Harmony

We fight for Equality among gender, Justice to all and Family Harmony

This paper "STOP VIOLENCE AGAINST MEN" covers a broad range news, articles and sources of atrocities, harassment, false cases, violent acts committed by women on men, mostly on their husbands/intimate partners. Some news also covers instances where a man took a drastic step and injured or killed himself when his tolerance against systematic harassment reached the peak, and he was left with no option or solution under laws of India which are biased against men. Because of this, many men suffer in silence or commit suicide.

Key Findings

A majority of men are ashamed to come forward to report daily abuse against them by their wives. Most of the news reports we collected reveal that women mostly use their gender to get away from the punishment for the crime they committed, even if the intimate partner/husband is killed by them. We also found that Indian courts are lenient towards women and generally sentence less than 2/3 years of punishment to the woman for murdering her husband. Law of the land is such that it always portrays women as ABLA NARI (victim/innocent) and it is a general presumption that her husband was killed by her while defending herself from husband's abuse. Dead men cannot speak; Indian Police will not investigate nor do Indian courts take any Suo moto action to charge such crimes of women. Other than that Women Ministry and other women NGOs make big issue out of one rape or murder case, most of the mainstream media highlights only crimes against Women and never report crimes against men perpetrated by women as most of the media houses are managed by feminists or they have directions that not to make any crimes against men viral on social media. In general, they lack a spine to state the truth.

Methodology:

Information for this report was sourced from various secondary sources, and various News publications which are listed in the Reference List with source after every news report. This report is not a comprehensive review of the available literature but provides a broad overview of the topic. It is an effort to highlight the plight of men who are neglected by World Organizations and Government bodies. Even the survey data study institutes or media is not ready to highlight or even publish such abuse, harassment and killings of Men.

There is no research data available on discrimination against men nor are any studies on their mental health recorded in any existing scientific literature. Any discrimination or bias on men affects their lives physically, mentally, emotionally, and psychologically. It is also a violation of basic human rights. Most of the discrimination and crimes against men is however unreported, unnoticed or simply ignored. As in India, they have no ministry or government organization to support and help them.

attacked/abused/harassed and killed by wives and girlfriends is much higher than ever thought. There were many murders of men at the time of the CORONA Pandemic who were stranded during the lockdown period, which are termed as Covid deaths as there were no postmortem or police investigation available at the time of Lockdown. If a woman dies even by accident, the news media reports the death as tragic and highlight it on the main page of mainstream media. In India it's often assumed that the women are ABLA NARI, the victim and men are the perpetrator/abuser. But the evidence collected by MyNation demonstrates that this is a false predomination, promoted by feminists and women organizations.

These reports are an exact copy of what is printed by the news media and posted here without any changes. Now it is up to the readers to decide what the truth is, as the feminist media shows and the government of India defends that all women are innocent victims of men, even though she might be the actual perpetrator/criminal and murderer.

This study Article / Report is based on news media coverage published in India in the first six months of 2021. There is a woman behind every crime listed in this article, either she is involved directly abusing/abetting or killing a man or is the reason for the crime. Not only woman is involved but she is main beneficiary of all crimes but no women is punished as for the same crime. In India, women are empowered to kill anyone and most of the time she escapes punishment because of the biased Indian laws which are favorable to women and encourage them to take the lead in a crime. She will get away even though she is abetting the suicide of a man and even if she is charged, she will hardly be sentenced for 2/3 years. But if a man is convicted, he will get a life in prison which shows how much the Indian Judiciary is biased.

Recently feminists and Minister of NCW mentioned that there were more women harassed and abused during the COVID-19 Pandemic. There are many reports covered in this article that many men are murdered during the lockdown, but there are no reports of women killed by husband during the lockdown. Many women used COVID situation to cover their crime and those murders were termed as COVID deaths.

Cops nab woman for getting her husband eliminated 9 years ago

May 28 2021

Aurangabad: While probing a contract killing case of a man by his wife and her elder sister, Aurangabad rural police have found that even the elder sister, too, had gotten her husband eliminated in 2012 after he learnt about her extra marital affair.

Following her footsteps, her younger sister allegedly got her husband eliminated by agreeing to pay the contract killers Rs.2 lakhs through her elder sister on May 18. In this case too, the accused woman's husband had learnt about her alleged illicit relationship with his cousin and had started harassing her.

When contacted, Pachod police station in-charge Ganesh Survase confirmed the development. He said, "We have taken the incident on record." He refused to divulge further details.

It all began with the police finding an unidentified body on the evening of May 20 with injury marks and hands tied up. The deceased was identified as Ashok Jadhav (50) of Kadethan Budruk in Paithan taluka. Based on the complaint lodged by his son Ashok, a murder case was registered.

Local crime branch team led by inspector Bhagwat Phunde swung into action and arrested the deceased's wife Ranjana (36), her paramour Ramprasad Jadhav (32), her elder sister Meenabai Pathade (40) of Karajgaon in Badnapur, her paramour Santosh Pawar (40), his three accomplices Karbhari alias Bapu Gholap (37), Arun Nagre (35), Prabhakar alias Sham Tambe (25) all from Badnapur.

During the course of investigation, assistant inspector Survase found that the even Meenabai's husband Mansaram went suspiciously missing in February 2012.

On further questioning, Meenabai confessed that her husband Mansaram had learnt about her illicit relations with Santosh and so they together decided to eliminate Mansaram. Police said that duo have confessed to offering a cold drink spiked with sleeping pills to him while they were on the way back from a marriage in Khultabad. Later, they took help of Santosh's accomplices and strangulated Mansaram to death in a jeep.

Pawar (40), his accomplices Karbharo alias Bapur Gholap (37), Arun Nagre (35), Prabhakar alias Sham Tambe (25), all from Badnapur.

While working on the case, the local crime branch of Pachod police carried out a technical analysis and screened the list of phone numbers that were among the last to have been used to make calls to the victim and detained the suspects for questioning.

“During the questioning, Meenabai spilled the beans stating that her younger sister Ranjana had an extra-marital affair with Ramprasad and about a month back, Ashok had heard a call recording of the conversation between the two,” said inspector Bhagwat Phunde.

According to police, when Ashok Jadhav allegedly continued to ill-treat and harass his wife after coming to know about her alleged affair with his cousin, she discussed the issue with Ramprasad and Meenabai. They together hatched the plan to kill Jadhav. Meenabai roped in Santosh Pawar for the job by promising him money.

“Ranjana agreed to pay Pawar Rs 2 lakh by selling her gold ornaments and some crops for the murder. She also paid him Rs 17,000 as an advance,” said police.

“According to the plan, Meenabai made a call to her brother-in-law, Ashok, and asked him to come to her village. After he reached the place to meet her, she expressed her desire to have intimate moments with him and took him to the Somthana-based hill, where the other suspects, including Pawar, were lying in waiting. Soon after they reached the spot, the accused assaulted him, tied his hands and legs, before strangulating and throwing the body,” said police.

AHMEDABAD: The mystery of the lone boy reported missing for three years in Viramgam rural area was solved, after his mother and uncle broke down and confessed they had killed the boy, as he had accidentally seen them having sex. They killed him by strangling. Then tried to burn the body, and later threw the half-burnt mutilated body parts in a canal. After that, they had joined the search for the missing boy.

Case details reveal that the incident happened on September 26, 2018.

In the wee hours on that day, the accused Jyotsna Patel and her husband's younger brother, Ramesh Patel, were having sex at their home in Jalampura village in Viramgam taluka of Ahmedabad district.

At that time, Jyotsna's five-year-old son Hardik happened to see them in compromised position and the accused also spotted the kid looking at them. Then and there, they decided to kill the child to keep the truth of their relationship concealed.

Jyotsna picked up her son in her lap and left towards cotton crop fields with her brother-in-law.

They reached a field, ensured that there was nobody around. Then, Jyotsna pressed her child's mouth and strangled him, while Ramesh held his hands so he couldn't escape.

After a couple of minutes, Hardik died. Ramesh collected some wood of a babool tree, bushes of cotton crops, set them on fire and put the child's body in the makeshift pyre.

As the body was taking long to burn, he decided to dispose of the remains of the body later and rushed to town for his daily wages.

During late evening on September 28, 2018, they began acting as if the kid was missing and they were worried as he did not return home.

On September 29, Ramesh went to the place where he'd buried the body, dug it up, and threw it in a canal.

Villagers too joined the search operation and approached cops who registered a case and had been searching for the missing kid since September 30, 2019.

"Even after searching for him and inquiring with almost every villager, cops did not get any lead in the case for a long time," said Anti-human trafficking wing PI, Umesh Dhakhda.

Later, Ramesh moved to Bharuch without any reason due to which a needle of suspicion moved towards him.

"We called him in for recording his statement and we found variations in his statement. Meanwhile, we also began questioning Jyotsna and found some discrepancies in her account as well," said Dhakhda.

When cops questioned them strictly, the duo broke down and confessed their crime saying that it was the only way they thought they could avoid embarrassment and to continue their relationship.

Bengaluru: Weeks after son's death, mother finds wife killed him with her lover's help

Mar 15 2021

BENGALURU: A case of unnatural death of a 40-year-old man took a new twist three weeks later, after his mother overheard a conversation between her daughter-in-law's siblings.

Acting on the elderly woman's alert, Varthur police on Friday arrested the man's wife and her lover for his murder.

On February 21, Chandrashekar from Siddapura in Varthur, died under mysterious circumstances. His wife, Pushpa, claimed he collapsed in the bathroom.

Chandrashekar was married to Pushpa for 13 years. He worked as a supervisor with a private firm, while Pushpa was a homemaker. Seven years ago, he had fallen from an under-construction building and undergone surgeries in the head. However, he continued to go to his workplace later.

The couple had no children; Chandrashekar's mother Gayithamma, 60, lived in Halemirle, KR Nagar taluk, Mysuru district.

Around 8.30pm on February 21, Gayithamma received a call from Pushpa. She said Chandrashekar's legs had been shaking and he was tired. Despite this, he went for a bath and collapsed. The fall, Pushpa said, resulted in him sustaining injuries where he had been operated earlier. He was rushed to a nearby private hospital, where doctors declared him brought dead, she added.

An unnatural death report (UDR) case was filed the next day and the doctors conducted postmortem. Probe revealed Pushpa was in love with a person named Manu for two years. A month before Chandrashekar's death, elders in the family had told Pushpa to leave Manu. On March 5, she attempted suicide at her brother's residence in Halemirle village and was later admitted to a hospital in Mysuru for treatment.

Around 9.30pm on March 8, Gayithamma went to the hospital to visit her daughter-in-law, where she overheard the conversation between Pushpa's brother Vishwa and her elder sister Geetha about Pushpa still being in a relationship with Manu. They also discussed the possibility of she having killed her husband.

Alerted by Gayithamma, Varthur police took Pushpa and Manu into custody. They found that on the day Chandrashekar died, a drunk Manu had come to Pushpa's house. The duo killed Chandrashekar by hitting him on the head with a rod. They later shifted the body from the hall to the bathroom to make it look like he had collapsed and sustained head injuries.

According to police sources, Chandrashekar was a drunkard and Pushpa was not happy about it. He'd often fight with Pushpa over her relationship with Manu.

NEW DELHI: A day after a contractual driver working for BSES was shot at in south Delhi's Defence Colony, police said on Thursday they have arrested his wife and her male friend for allegedly hatching a conspiracy to kill him as he objected to their extra-marital affair.

The man, Bhimraj, 45, a resident of Chirag Delhi, sustained injury in his neck and was shifted to the All India Institute of Medical Sciences (AIIMS) for treatment, they said.

According to police, Bhimraj's 41-year-old wife and her 23-year-old friend, Rohan Kumar, had planned to kill him around 15 days ago and executed the plan on Wednesday morning. Police received a call around 9.00 am that a motorcycle rider had shot at a man who was inside a car near the electricity grid in Defence Colony's Andrews Ganj.

Police analyzed over 100 CCTV cameras installed in the area, following which the motorcycle was detected but the number plate of the vehicle was not visible, police officer said.

In one of the footage, Kumar was also seen trailing the victim, he said.

While trying to trace the owner of the alleged motorcycle, police found that it had been sold multiple times and was currently being owned by Kumar. With the help of technical surveillance, the accused was arrested from near his house in southeast Delhi's Govindpuri, he said.

Deputy Commissioner of Police (South) Atul Kumar Thakur said initially the accused tried to mislead the investigation and claimed that he and the victim had engaged in a road rage around a month-and-a-half ago and had fired at the victim to take revenge.

During sustained interrogation, he revealed that he had an extra-marital affair with the victim's wife for the last three-and-half months and they hatched a conspiracy to kill him as he was against their relationship, he said.

On the night of January 1, Bhimraj had caught his wife red-handed while she was talking on phone to the accused and started beating her. The woman, along with Kumar, then decided to kill him so that they could live together, the DCP said.

Kumar purchased a pistol and cartridges on her instructions from a friend in Burari and the woman also gave Rs 30,000 to execute the plan, he added.

He was earlier arrested in a 2019 case of attempt to murder and the Arms Act registered at the Surajpur police station in Noida, police said.

The police said they have recovered one semi-automatic pistol with two live cartridges, the motorcycle used in commission of the crime and clothes worn by the accused at the time of the incident.

The woman, identified as Bhuvneshwari Devi alias Pinky, also alleged that her 35-year-old husband Anil Sahu, who ran a placement agency, often used to beat her, they said.

In order to get rid of him, she along with one Raj, with whom she was also having an affair, hatched a conspiracy to kill him and later tried to mislead investigators by narrating a fake story, police said.

They said that the accused, Raj, has been absconding and raids are being conducted to nab him.

According to police, Sahu's body with multiple injuries on his face, head and neck was found at his home on June 3 and during enquiry, his wife told police that he was killed by two unknown people who had come to meet him. However, no information or clue was found to identity them.

Later, it was found that five people, including the deceased's wife, his two minor children and two maids, were present at home at the time of the incident but none of them could disclose anything related to the incident, which was suspicious, a senior police officer said.

Deputy commissioner of Police (Outer) Parvinder Singh said, "During inspection, we found some injuries on the body and the hands of his wife. Some faint stain marks were also spotted on the clothes worn by her, but she was not ready to disclose anything about the incident and frequently kept changing her statements."

However, after sustained interrogation, she told police that a long-standing dispute was going on between them due to which, she had also lodged a case against Sahu last year at Dhanwar police station in Jharkhand. But after arriving at a compromise, they had started living together, the DCP said.

"She revealed that the discord again developed between them when she got to know about her husband having illicit relationships with other women. This led to frequent quarrels between them and he would often beat her. She also later got into a relationship with Raj and when she could not bear her husband's atrocities any further, she called Raj and hatched a conspiracy to eliminate her husband," the DCP said.

Giving details of the incident, the woman told police that on the night of June 2, after Sahu returned home from work, she gave him sleeping pills with dinner as per their plan and she along with Raj then tied him up.

As the duo was preparing to kill him, he woke up. A scuffle ensued between him and Raj, during which she held Sahu's hands and killed him, following which Raj fled the spot, he said.

Indian courts should start delivering the judgement very fast and should not hesitate to give capital punishment to these killers.

PATNA: An electronic engineer working for a multinational firm in Bengaluru allegedly committed suicide in Katihar town after his wife refused to return home despite several requests and phone calls, police said on Tuesday.

The deceased, Ajay Kumar Bharti (26), was presently working from home at Katihar, police said. Town police station SHO Raghvendra Prasad Singh told TOI over phone that the matter came to light at around 10am on Monday when his father Parmeshwari Bharti returned home from night duty and Ajay didn't open the door.

"Ajay used his wife's scarf as a noose to hang himself from the ceiling fan. Police had to break open the door which was locked from inside," he said.

The SHO said Ajay had an intercaste love marriage with one Priyanka Kumari around a year back. "They had returned from Bengaluru after the lockdown. Though both used to have some minor disputes," he said.

Ajay's father had asked him to bring Priyanka back as she had gone to her parental residence almost a fortnight back after some dispute between them. When Ajay visited his wife, she refused to return immediately. Priyanka said she would come home on Tuesday, the SHO said. Priyanka's parents live at Shanti Nagar in Katihar town.

"Ajay returned home after which his father, an ex-serviceman, left for night duty. He even called his wife again, but in vain. He finally committed suicide," the SHO said.

A case of unnatural death has been registered, he said, adding that Ajay's family did not press any charges against Priyanka.

He said Ajay's father only said he committed suicide due to family dispute.

PATNA: A man killed his wife and later committed suicide in Siwan leaving behind four minor children, while an employee of the sub-registry office was shot dead in Muzaffarpur district during the past 24 hours.

Reports reaching the police headquarters said Rajesh Rai (40) stabbed to death his wife Ramkali Devi (35) at Basaw Tola Nagri village under Basantpur police station in Siwan district late on Sunday night.

Later, Rai committed suicide by hanging himself from the ceiling of his house. The incident came to light when some residents visited Rai's house on Monday morning and reported the matter to the police. The couple has four children in the age group of four to 12 years.

The SHO of Basantpur police station Ashutosh Kumar said a domestic dispute is stated to be the reason. Rai used to quarrel with his wife over family issues, which led to the incident, he added.

The police said Rai used to eke out a livelihood selling vegetables in the local market. Financial constraints often led to heated arguments between the husband and the wife.

"The bodies were handed over to the relatives after post mortem," an investigating officer said.

In Muzaffarpur, the police recovered the bullet-riddled body of Abdul Kuddus from Rampur Kashi village on Muzaffarpur-Mahua road under Maniari police station on Monday morning.

The deceased, a resident of Majhia village under Chehrakalan block in Vaishali district, was employed at the sub-registry office in Muzaffarpur. The family members were searching for him when he didn't reach home from the office on Sunday.

The man's maternal uncle, Tanveer Alam, said the identity of the victim was ascertained by the identity card recovered from his pocket. "He was killed somewhere else while returning home from his office and his body was dumped on the spot," he added.

On getting information, Muzaffarpur SSP Jayant Kant visited Maniari police station and issued instructions to arrest the culprits at the earliest.

This is the second incident of murder in Muzaffarpur within 24 hours. Earlier, a trader identified as Vinod Choudhary was shot dead near Sherpur under the Ahiapur police station area when he was returning home after closing his shop.

Rajkot: Sayla police of Surendranagar district on Friday arrested a 38-year-old woman and her paramour in connection with the murder of the woman's husband Jema Vaghela (40), a farmer of Dhankniya village in Sayla taluka, on May 13 midnight. Rekha and Vaghela were married for 15 years and the couple has two sons and a daughter.

While the unsuspecting family members even performed the final rites of the deceased, the victim's nephew had some doubts and collected circumstantial evidence. He later filed an application before the police which resulted in the arrest of the two accused.

According to Sayla police, they have arrested Rekha Vaghela (38) and her paramour Bharat Rangpara (37), a resident of Songadh village in Thangadh taluka of Surendranagar district.

Based on the application by the nephew, Ramesh, police launched a probe and called in Rekha for questioning on Thursday. "Rekha spilled the beans and confessed to the crime and revealed the sequence of events that led to the murder of her husband," said a Sayla police official.

According to cops, Rekha was having an extra marital affair with Rangpara who worked as an agricultural labourer and the duo wanted to elope. But before doing so, they decided to eliminate Vaghela and they hatched a devious plan. On May 13, Rekha and her husband went to their farm for the night and as per the plan asked Bharat to come there at midnight. Bharat arrived at midnight and the duo strangulated Vaghela in his sleep," police said.

According to police, Sangeeta Rathod, 35, a resident of Madhapar near Rajkot, had filed a complaint with the Gandhigram police on Monday after her husband went missing on May 3. Heena was arrested on January 10, after a complaint was lodged by her mother-in-law alleging that the former's extra marital affair with the building's watchman, Ankit Prasad, led her son to commit suicide.

The deceased even tried to jump off ONGC bridge in November but was caught.

Khanna got married to Heena around 12 years ago after a brief love affair. The couple has no child and they went to stay in Stuti Icon around eight months ago. "Heena has never been accepted by Khanna family and the complaint was lodged merely to harass her. Her husband was under depression due to financial crisis and was a chain smoker. There was no other accusation against the accused except the love affair," Heena's advocate, Sagar Shukla, argued.

“Interesting part of this case is that the contract amount of Rs 5 lakh was recovered from deceased Mohammed Shafi, a small-time real estate businessman,” a police release said.

The arrested were identified as Tasleem Banu, 29, Afsar Khan, 41, Pasha, 26, Syed Wasim, 26, Venkatesh, 19, Bharat, 18, Chetan, 19, Ibrahim, 19 and a minor.

She wanted to eliminate her husband, who, she thought, would become a problem in her affair, and hence she roped her lover to eliminate him,” Assistant Commissioner of Police Sudhir Hegde told IANS.

Khan persuaded Shafi to invest in a land parcel valued around Rs 70 lakh by offering him immediate commission of Rs 5 lakh. “After investing Rs 70 lakh, Shafi was running around to collect his Rs 5 lakh commission. But Khan kept dodging him for several months, giving one excuse after the other.”

“After Shafi was killed, his father Arif lodged a case and investigations revealed his wife’s hand in this case,” the police said.

THE CASE

In January, 22-year-old Reshma of Kalluvathukkal village in Kollamth, abandoned her baby in a pit near a rubber plantation minutes after the newborn's birth. Though the infant was traced, he died at the hospital.

After a detailed probe of six months and based on DNA sampling, the police team found that Reshma and her husband were the biological parents of the baby.

Reshma was arrested in June in connection with the death of the newborn.

During interrogation, Reshma told police that she had left her newborn to die in order to elope with a man whom she had befriended on Facebook but never met in person. She confessed to having abandoned the baby to live with her 'lover', police said.

According to police, she had not disclosed that she was pregnant to her husband, Vishnu, nor to anyone else in her family.

During their investigation to find out the woman's Facebook friend, police called two of her relatives, her sister-in-law Arya, and niece Greeshma, for questioning.

Police summoned them as a mobile SIM card in Arya's name was being used by Reshma to operate one of her multiple Facebook accounts.

THE TWIST IN THE CASE

In a strange turn of events, the two women allegedly died by suicide after they jumped into a river a day after they were summoned.

Following this, police questioned a friend of Greeshma who revealed that she had told him that she and Arya created the Facebook account of one Anandu to play a prank on Reshma.

Police also found that Arya had told her mother-in-law about the prank before she allegedly committed suicide.

Police said there were signs of strangulation on the girl's body. Also, the body was shifted to the government medical college at Pariyaram where autopsy will be held on Monday. Wahida, who hails from a family in Coorg, was admitted to the district hospital and is under police custody. Rajesh, who was working in the Gulf, couldn't return to work due to lockdown. ### Gwalior Woman Plots Husband's Murder As Suicide, Says Got Clue From 'Crime Patrol'

The woman kept misleading the investigating team for close to a month till the post-mortem

JULY 01, 2021

An investigation into a murder case in Gwalior has become talk of the town. A woman allegedly killed her husband and plotted it as a suicide, following which she kept on misleading the police team for 28 days.

The woman, identified as Mamata, allegedly killed her husband, Parshuram, on June 2 in Ramji Ka Pura of Bahodapur area in Gwalior city. However, she told the police that her husband died by suicide. Police officials initially believed her story but after the post-mortem report it came to light that the accused woman planned the murder of her husband after watching an episode of the popular crime show 'Crime Patrol'.

The wife of the deceased was misleading the police investigation for nearly a month by pretending to be shocked after the death of her husband. Initially, Mamata said that her husband hanged himself to death but in the post-mortem report it came out that the husband died due to brain haemorrhage.

Parshuram died on the night of June 2. When the police reached the spot, his body was lying on a bed and there was a noose around his neck. There were injury marks on his body. On this, Mamata told police that she brought down her husband's body hanging on the noose, and hence there were marks on the body.

The police initially believed the alibi of Mamata but took her into custody and interrogated her after the post-mortem report came out.

In the police interrogation, Mamata said that her husband used to beat her after consuming alcohol and it was affecting her son too. On June 2 also, Parashuram again assaulted her. After this, Mamata decided to kill Parashuram and sent her 13-year-old son to the market on the pretext of bringing a mobile charger.

Mamata beat Parashuram to death with a stick. Then as she had watched in an episode of 'Crime Patrol', she plotted the murder as suicide. Then, she put a noose around Parashuram's neck and placed his body on the bed.

The woman's brother, absconding now, was arrested four years ago in a murder case and his connections with jailed gangster Sunil alias Tillu Tajpuriya helped the accused escape from the crime scene, said police sources.

Days after a 24-year-old man was shot dead and his wife left severely injured in Dwarka in what police suspected was a case of 'honour killing', the Delhi Police have arrested a 26-year-old cousin of the woman for the alleged murder. The accused Vicky was arrested from Rohtak, said DCP (Dwarka) Santosh Kumar Meena.

The couple had approached the Punjab and Haryana High Court for protection after they had eloped and got married last August. On June 24, six or seven men, including the woman's brother, cousin and uncle barged into their house at Ambrahi village in Dwarka and fired at them. The husband Vinay, a taxi driver, died while the 19-year-old wife Kiran has since then come through a critical condition in hospital.

Sources told The Indian Express that police have found CCTV footage of the accused on their way to Dwarka on the night of the incident in an SUV. Those in the vehicle were identified as Aman Dahiya, Kiran's elder brother, Vicky and their uncle Shakti Dahiya. Aman was instigated by his uncle Shakti as they all decided to take revenge for their "name being sullied" after the wedding.

The woman's brother, absconding now, was arrested four years ago in a murder case and his connections with jailed gangster Sunil alias Tillu Tajpuriya helped the accused escape from the crime scene, said police sources.

In an order dated August 19, 2020, Justice Raj Mohan Singh had asked the Sonapat Senior Superintendent of Police (SSP) to ascertain the truth in the allegations of threat by the couple in their petition. However, the couple's advocate claimed Sonapat police did not take "concrete action" and also did not inform the Delhi police about the threat.

Rekha Kadiresh murder, former BJP corporator Rekha Kadiresh, former BJP corporator murder, mala arrest rekha kadiresh File photo of Rekha Kadiresh and her late husband S Kadiresh.

The cycle of violence in Cottonpet, a neighbourhood of narrow streets and bloody gang wars in the old city area of Bengaluru, has entered a new phase. And at the centre this time are two women: an ex-councillor, who was hacked to death in broad daylight, and her former sister-in-law, who has a police record of alleged murder, drug-peddling and bootlegging.

On June 24, Rekha Kadiresh, the former councillor for the Chalavadipalya ward who was widely tipped to win in the next city council polls this year, was hacked to death outside her BJP ward office shortly after she had finished serving food to the poor in the locality.

Within 24 hours, police arrested five men for the 43-year-old's murder on the basis of eyewitness accounts and CCTV footage. Now, investigators are looking at the alleged role of Mala Rajkannan, 50, who is said to be a "gang boss" in the area for over two decades.

Mala is the elder sister of Rekha's husband S Kadiresh, who was hacked to death three years ago outside a temple in the area as part of another suspected gang war. And investigators suspect that behind the latest killing is a mix of family vendetta and local politics, police sources told The Indian Express.

What really marks this case apart, though, is that it is the first instance of a woman being killed in the gang wars of Cottonpet.

One of the reasons for Mala's alleged role coming under the scanner is that she was perceived to have been aggrieved with Rekha for distancing herself from Kadiresh's family and associates in an effort to ditch the criminal past linked to her husband and enter mainstream politics.

"Rekha had gathered around 20-30 youths she trusted. She had also stopped payments to the family of Kadiresh. It seems there was an effort to convince her to allow Mala's daughter-in-law to contest the civic polls and it was refused," police sources said.

Kadiresh, 47, was also a former councillor in area before the ward was reserved for woman candidates and he had a record of crimes including two murder charges dating back to 2002.

Another reason for the police to zero in on Mala is that some of the men arrested for Rekha's murder were allegedly her henchmen, police sources said. Those arrested have been identified as Lambu Peter (41), once a close associate of Kadiresh; Vinay alias Surya (27); Purushotham (22); Stephen Jaipal (21); and, Ajay Kumar (21) - all on the Cottonpet police station's crime records.

"Peter was very close to Kadiresh and used to get civic contracts from the city council when Kadiresh was alive. A few months after Kadiresh died, Rekha reportedly blocked a Rs 16 lakh payment for a corporation contract. Around a year ago, she beat him with her chappals after he created a drunken ruckus near her house," police sources said.

The latest police probe has also found that one of the five arrested, Purushotham, had turned CCTV cameras away from the street where Rekha was murdered. "But the cameras captured his face as he turned them away," police sources said. Purushotham, incidentally, was arrested in 2018 for the murder of Shobhan (19), with police concluding at the time that it was to avenge the murder of Kadiresh. The motive behind Kadiresh's killing remains unclear.

Police are also looking at the alleged role of Mala's son, Arun Kumar (35), and a brother of Rekha whose version of the conspiracy matches that of some of the arrested accused. "Mala has been called for questioning. She is a hard nut to crack and these gangs have a code of allegiance. She has been in and out of police stations for long and knows how to evade questions. We are looking for evidence for her link," police sources said.

Mala and her associates, most of them family members who trace their roots to Tamil Nadu, have been arrested multiple times with huge quantities of ganja. Some of her female associates have allegedly been linked to marijuana supplies to prisoners in the central jail.

"Mala has remained local while some of the youths she has protected and raised have become big players. She and Kadiresh were arrested in the murder of the rowdy Jopady Rajendra in 2002," police sources said.

The murder of Rajendra allegedly featured Mala's family members and "was one of the first gangland killings in Bengaluru where mobile phones were used to communicate the location and movements of the victim to execute the murder," a police officer said. "The cycle of violence does not seem to stop for these local gangs."

In recent years, Mala is alleged to have accumulated property, including "at least one multi-storeyed building in west Bengaluru", police sources said.

Many of the criminals who have dominated underworld activities in Bengaluru in the past few decades - M P Jayaraj, Jeddarahalli Krishna, Cottonpet Pushpa - have had roots in the fight for survival in the streets of Cottonpet. Police investigations had revealed that many of them enjoyed political patronage, too.

With polls for the highly coveted city council seats in the offing this year, there is a view that a political angle exists in Rekha's murder. "It looks like a personal feud is behind the murder but there could be a political angle as well," police sources said.

"Rekha was popular and the party decided to nominate her again," N R Ramesh, spokesman for the BJP Bengaluru unit and former councillor, said. "She was expected to win."

Indian woman admits stabbing minor daughter to death at home in UK

Sutha Sivanantham stabbed her daughter 15 times before severely injuring herself

Jun 25, 2021

A 36-year-old Indian woman in the UK has pleaded guilty to manslaughter by diminished responsibility after she admitted killing her five-year-old daughter at their home because she was terrified of dying from Covid-19 and thought the little girl could not live without her, according to a media report.

Sutha Sivanantham stabbed her daughter Sayagi in the bedroom of their south London flat 15 times before severely injuring herself on June 30 last year, the Metro.co.uk reported.

Her husband said she had been 'petrified' about catching the virus and the lockdown restrictions may have 'pushed her over the edge,' the report added.

Appearing at the Old Bailey on Thursday, Sivanantham denied murder but admitted manslaughter on the grounds of diminished responsibility and will be kept in hospital indefinitely.

Sivanantham, who had been living in the UK since 2006 after an arranged marriage, complained of mystery ailments for almost a year before the tragedy.

She developed a 'morbid concern' she was seriously ill and had become convinced she was going to die, prosecutors said.

On the day of the attack, she begged her husband not to go to work and called friends to tell them she was unwell.

Around 4 pm, neighbours went to the flat in Monarch Parade, Mitcham, and found Sivanantham with stab wounds to her abdomen.

Sayagi, who was lying on the bed, had been stabbed several times in the neck, chest and abdomen.

Sutha was also found to have suffered self-inflicted stab injuries and was taken to hospital, where she remained for more than two months receiving treatment before being discharged into police custody.

Sainsbury's worker Suganthan Sivanantham was called at the supermarket to be told that his wife had killed their daughter at their home, the report said.

He sobbed loudly in the dock as his impact statement was read to the court.

It said: 'I get very emotional having to relive what has happened to my daughter and my wife.'

He said before the killing the family had lived a 'happy fulfilling and blissful life.' Since then he has had to give up work and 'each day is a struggle.'

Sivanantham said he has not spoken to his wife but accepts she was not responsible for her actions.

'I know that if she was well, she would not have been able to kill our daughter,' he said.

One psychiatrist who has treated Sivanantham found that the social isolation and stress caused by the Covid-19 lockdown contributed to her serious mental illness.

She was sent to be treated in hospital under sections 37 and 41 of the Mental Health Act.

MP woman googles how to commit murder, kills husband with lover's help

A woman in Madhya Pradesh's Harda district killed her husband with the help of her lover after she googled ways to murder and dispose of a body.

The incident took place on June 18 in Harda district's Khedipur area.

The woman, Tabassum, informed the police about her husband's death but portrayed herself as unaware of when it happened.

The police reached the spot on learning about the incident and started investigating the crime scene.

During the investigation, the police found that the husband, Aamir, used to work in Maharashtra. Suffering from financial difficulty, Tabassum used to rely on another man, Irfan, for help and the two of them got closer.

Aamir moved back to Harda after the Covid-19 lockdown was imposed in Maharashtra.

According to the police, Aamir suffered from asthma and used to take regular medicine for it. Tabassum switched Aamir's asthma medicine and gave him some other medicine in its place, causing him to lose consciousness.

Afterward, Irfan came over during the night and murdered Aamir with Tabassum's help.

According to the police, the two accused tied the victim's hands and feet with a scarf, and then Irfan attacked Aamir with a hammer till he lost his life.

Tabassum informed the police about the incident but attempted to mislead the investigation.

When the police team reached the crime scene, it first appeared as if robbery was the motive behind the crime. However, the police suspected the woman based on the overall evidence present at the crime scene.

The police took help from the cyber cell and asked for the call details of Tabassum. When the police went through her call history, they discovered many phone calls between Tabassum and Irfan, further raising their suspicion.

The police then searched her Google history and discovered that Tabassum had searched on the internet for methods to kill, ways to tie hands and feet, and how to dispose of a body.

Upon further interrogation, the woman confessed to her crime.

The police seized the weapon used in the crime, along with blood-stained clothes, mobile phone, and the cloth used to tie the victim, after the accused led them to these things.

According to SP Manoj Kumar Agrawal, Aamir was murdered on June 18, and the police were able to solve the case and arrest the two accused within 24 hours of the crime.

The two accused were presented in court and have been sent to jail.

"Some of the relatives too were suspicious of Manohar's sudden death after recovery," Mokashi said. "Soon, we realized that Hande had recovered from Covid and was fine. Investigation gained momentum after the postmortem report revealed that the deceased died because of strangulation. We probed call detail records and it was established that Ashwini and Sutar were together at Hande's residence on the night of the incident," Mokashi said.

"The two first offered him milk with sleeping pills and strangled him to death around 2am," he said. "Ashwini claimed that her husband was isolating himself in another room because of Covid and she did not know how he had died," he said.

Mumbai: Woman detained for killing husband with lover, burying body inside house

Jun 1, 2021

MUMBAI: A 27-year-old woman was detained on Tuesday for conspiring with her boyfriend and killing her husband, before burying his body inside their house at a Dahisar chawl.

A fresh layer of cement on the kitchen tiles alerted the police. Till late on Tuesday, police were still excavating to retrieve the body which had been placed in a gunny bag before burying.

Shahida Shaikh, the accused, lived with husband, Raees, 28, at Khan compound in Dahisar's Rawalpada. The couple had been married for nine years and have two children.

On May 25, Shahida approached the Dahisar police station and complained that her husband had gone missing. She said that he never returned from the garments shop that he worked in. When the police started making inquiries in Khan compound, a different picture emerged. The police found out that Shahida was having an extra marital relationship with a young man, Amit Vishwakarma, from the neighborhood. Vishwakarma, a security guard by profession, had vanished since May 25-- the same day that Shahida reported her husband missing. The police made inquiries with Shahida but she gave evasive responses.

"On Tuesday, a police team carried out an inspection of Shahida's house. They found it odd that some tiles of the kitchen were covered in a fresh layer of cement. When asked about it, Shahida stayed mum. The team then decided to pull out the tiles and examine," said additional commissioner Dilip Sawant.

After initial digging, the police found a huge hole in the ground. Shahida then allegedly admitted to the crime. "On May 22, after Raees reached home from work, Vishwakarma strangled him with a nylon rope with Shahida's help. Her children were asleep at the time. Later, the body was packed in a gunny bag and the two removed tiles in the kitchen to dig a hole to bury the body. They replaced the tiles with a fresh coat of cement in the end," said an officer.

Shahida claims she distracted the children, when they woke up due to the noise, by plonking them in front of the television and turning up the volume. But the police believe the children might be knowing more and could have been threatened into silence. Multiple police teams are hunting for Vishwakarma. Shahida told investigators that the two were keen to live together and therefore plotted to eliminate her husband.

The Mumbai Police has arrested a 27-year-old woman who allegedly killed her husband with the help of her paramour and hid his body by burying it in her kitchen.

Her six-year-old daughter was an eyewitness to it. When the police started investigating the case, she revealed her mother's deeds to them.

The deceased has been identified as Raees Sheikh. He was married to Shahida Sheikh (the main accused) in 2012 in Gonda, Uttar Pradesh.

The couple moved to Mumbai in search of jobs and have a six-year-old daughter and a two-year-old son.

The police have arrested Shahida Sheikh and her paramour Aniket alias Amit Mishra on murder charges.

On Wednesday, police recovered Raees Sheikh's body 11 days after his death. The police had to dig for nearly 12 hours to recover the body buried three feet under the kitchen.

According to the police, on May 25, Shahida Sheikh reached the Dahisar police station and filed a missing complaint. She told police that her husband hadn't returned home after he left on May 21. She added that she had been unable to contact him since the time he left home.

Based on this, the police registered a missing complaint and started investigating the matter.

On May 25, Raees' brother Anees reached Mumbai and went to the Dahisar police station. He informed the police that his sister-in-law was changing her statements repeatedly. He also told the police that he suspected she was hiding something.

On June 1, the police reached Raees' home. While inspecting the house, the police noticed that floor tiles of the kitchen were irregularly placed and many tiles were missing.

When grilled about her husband's disappearance, Shahida reportedly revealed that she had murdered him with the help of her paramour Amit Mishra and buried his body in the kitchen.

When the police asked her daughter, she too revealed what she had seen. She added that her mother had threatened that if she told anyone about it, she too would be buried similarly.

According to the police, Shahida revealed that she had an extramarital affair with Amit Mishra, her neighbour. Her husband Raees came to know about it. He was against the relationship and asked her to stop it immediately.

However, Shahida, along with Amit Mishra, decided to murder Raees. On May 22, Shahida and Amit strangled Raees in front of her six-year-old daughter with a wire. Following this, they cut his body into three parts, kept them in the bathroom for a while and later buried them in the kitchen.

Noida: Fed up with frequent domestic violence, a woman allegedly plotted the murder of her husband with three men, including her paramour, who executed the crime on the intervening night of May 6-7. All the four have been arrested, police said.

According to police, Sushila (45) who had been married to another man around 20 years ago, left her first husband Lalaram after she met Santram and came to Noida with her five children to stay with him. She subsequently married Santram and the couple started staying in Noida's Kakrala village in Sector 80.

However, Santram soon started beating her frequently and Sushila developed an ill-will towards him.

A few months ago, she started talking to Manoj (27), who is much younger to her and the two had an affair.

A few days back, Sushila planned her husband's murder with Manoj and the latter involved his brother Akash and their relative Rajesh in the plan, police said.

On the intervening night of May 6-7, the accused trio knocked on the door of the couple's house and Sushila opened the door.

The trio entered the house and killed Santram. However, his wife told police that the trio had forcefully entered the house and hit her husband's head with bricks when he refused to hand over the keys of his bike.

Additional DCP (central Noida) Ankur Aggarwal said that investigators found the woman's version "suspicious". "Further probe revealed that Sushila was involved in planning the crime and she had links with Manoj," he said. All the four have been arrested in connection with the murder, Aggarwal said.

The vehicle fled the spot and Jeyabarathi was left bleeding on the road. Some passerby found her and rushed her to the government hospital where she succumbed to injuries later.

Due to marital discord, Jeyabarathi left her husband in the US, returned home and took a temporary job at Anthakudi post office.

Despite many attempts by family members, the couple failed to reconcile Jeyabarathi decided to file divorce and sent a notice to her husband. According to police, an agitated Vishnuprakash threatened Jeyabarathi and her family and feared that he would be forced to pay alimony.

Based on the complaint filed by Jeyabarathi's father Chidambaram, the Tiruvarur police under SP A Kayalvizhi began probing the incident.

Three special teams were formed to collect CCTV footage, CDR analysis and witness examinations.

"We gathered the CCTV footage from her house till the accident spot. We noticed that the same truck that caused the accident followed her previously. We gathered the information and found that the truck belongs to one Senthikumar (40). When we enquired him, he said he did not have any idea about the accident and he had sold the truck. We then investigated and found it was a person named Jegan (37) who had brought the truck alongside his other associates Prasanna (34) and Raja (45). When we questioned them, they gave contradictory versions of the incident. We connected the dots and found out another Senthilkumar who is married to Vishnuprakash's sister, has executed the act. We also came to know that even the truck owner Senthilkumar was involved in this incident and the whole process of buying and selling the truck was drama. Senthilkumar had received instruction from his brother-in-law and has hatched the murder using these men," she said.

Police said the couple had repeated arguments and Neeraj released a video claiming a threat to his life.

A 63-year-old chemistry professor has been arrested for allegedly drugging and electrocuting her husband in Chhatarpur in Madhya Pradesh.

According to police, Mamta Pathak killed Neeraj Pathak, a prominent MBBS doctor in the district, over suspicion of an extramarital affair. The couple had repeated arguments and Neeraj had also released a video through his advocate stating that he had a threat to his life and that his wife may kill him some day, police said.

The incident took place on April 29 but came to light two days later when Mamta approached Loknath Puram police station on May 1 informing that her husband had died on April 29 at their house. According to the police, in her complaint to the police, Mamta said it was around 9 pm when she had gone to check on her husband for dinner and found him unconscious, after which she realised his pulse was missing. However, she claimed that she did not inform the police as her husband earlier had a fever and she decided to take him for a medical check-up the next day.

"It was the delay in reporting the case that made the police suspicious of her role in his death after she was questioned. She confessed to having murdered her husband after which she was arrested," said Deputy Superintendent of Police Shashank Jain.

Police said Neeraj was undergoing treatment for depression and Mamata allegedly gave him an extra dose of sleeping pills mixed with his food on April 29. After he fell asleep, she allegedly electrocuted him using an extension cord in their bedroom, they said.

The couple have two sons - Niteesh, who recently moved in with his father, and Manas, who lives in Los Angeles, US. Police have claimed that Niteesh is mentally unstable.

Pankaj said his brother was locked inside the washroom by Mamta three days before his death and had to call the police control room. "After such incidents... we had sent a police party to their home. However, no action was taken as they had refused to register any complaint," said Jain.

However, Neeraj's family claimed that he tried to speak to the Chhatarpur SP about the matter but could not get an appointment and no FIR was lodged despite his calls to the control room.

Neeraj's younger brother Sharad told The Indian Express, "There are discrepancies in the case and we will be writing to all concerned officials for it to be properly investigated. Mamta moved back with my brother only for his money. Why did she inform about his death 36 hours later and where was she during this time? This needs to be ascertained."

This angered Sachin who planned to bump off Thakore," said J D Sarvaiya, police sub-inspector, taluka police station.

Sachin teamed up with his friend Sagar and both decided to murder Thakore, a driver by profession, on Saturday evening. "The accused duo planted two iron pipes at the spot where they had planned to kill Thakore. On Saturday afternoon, Sachin called Thakore and planned to go for a long drive," Sarvaiya added.

Thakore left his home in his four-wheeler and picked up Sachin and Sagar on the way. The accused duo took him to the spot and began assaulting him. While Sachin hit Thakore with iron pipe, Sagar stabbed him with a pocket knife. After disposing off his body in the bushes, the accused removed Thakore's gold chain and two finger-rings worth Rs 2.25 lakh and fled in his car.

Some passer-by spotted Thakore's body on Saturday night and informed the police. Thakore's family members, who had been searching for him, identified his body following which a case of murder was filed at taluka police station. The cops learnt that Thakore's mother was booked under the Prohibition Act in the past so they tried to ascertain if her background had anything to do with the murder.

"During investigations, we learnt about Thakore's wife's affair with Sachin following which we picked him up. After some detailed questioning, he admitted to have committed the murder. We have recovered Thakore's car and gold ornaments from the accused," Sarvaiya said. The police said that prima facie, they haven't found Riddhi's involvement in the crime.

Apr 14, 2021

HOWRAH: A 22-year-old woman, who had married a 25-year-old man four months ago after five years of courtship, was arrested by Bally police for allegedly abetting her husband's suicide.

A video that purportedly shows the man killing himself was recovered from her. Though the woman claimed she shot the video thinking that he was only threatening to commit suicide like he had done on other occasions in the past, Howrah City Police said there were inconsistencies in her statement and her claim needed to be probed. She was arrested under IPC 306.

According to police, Amon Shaw and Neha Shukla had married on December 11 last year. The couple, hailing from Liluah, quit their jobs after marriage and Amon started a business. Amon's elder sister Barkha Prasad claimed it was a tour to Delhi Neha undertook alone on March 31 that led to serious differences between the couple. "Amon wanted to go with her but she refused. We suspected that she might be hiding something," said Barkha.

On April 5, Neha returned to Kolkata and sought an immediate divorce despite knowing that her in-laws were going to Vellore for treatment, Barkha claimed.

The Shaw family was still in Vellore when the Bally police asked them to return, saying that Amon had committed suicide at their rented accommodation at Tarka Sidhantha Lane in Bally.

"We were surprised at Neha's extremely calm demeanour. We seized her phone and found the video. When we asked her why she did not stop him, she kept saying that she thought Amon was giving an empty threat. We lodged a police complaint on Monday after which the cops detained her" claimed Barkha.

The man was murdered allegedly for objecting to his wife's relationship with another man (also arrested) and they wanted to allegedly claim the insurance money after his death, the police said.

Police said the entire murder plot was hatched by the woman and her 32-year-old male friend.

A 35-year-old woman and three others were arrested and a 17-year-old boy was apprehended in connection with the murder of her husband, whose body was found in Sanjay Gandhi Transport Nagar near Samaipur Badli in outer Delhi four days ago.

The man was murdered allegedly for objecting to his wife's relationship with another man (also arrested) and they wanted to allegedly claim the insurance money after his death, the police said on Thursday.

Police said the entire murder plot was hatched by the woman and her 32-year-old male friend. The two hired three persons, including the minor boy, to execute the murder. The five had made two failed attempts to kill the man between March 30 and April 2, before they eventually killed him on the night of April 3 -- by covering his face with a cloth and smashing his head and face with stones at an isolated place in Sanjay Gandhi Transport Nagar, said deputy commissioner of police (outer) Rajiv Ranjan Singh.

DCP Singh said the body was found on April 4 and a murder case was registered at the Samaipur Badli police station. While carrying out a combing operation around the crime scene, the police on April 6 spotted a woman wandering about with a 15-year-old boy.

"As her activities looked suspicious, the police team questioned her. She broke down and confessed to the crime. She disclosed that her friend, Mukesh Walia, was also with her but he fled after seeing the police," said the DCP, adding that Walia was later arrested and his interrogation led to the apprehension of the other three suspects, two of whom were identified as Sachin and Vikas. The identity of the minor boy has been withheld. During the interrogation, DCP Singh said it was revealed that all five persons worked in massage parlours and knew each other. Walia entered into a relationship with the woman and started living with her and her three children, when her husband was admitted to a rehabilitation centre for his alcoholism. When he returned home, he objected to his wife's closeness with Walia and used to assault her as well.

"It was because of that reason that the two planned to kill him and roped in the other three persons," the DCP added.

March 24. Choudhary, who was posted as a technician in an electric powerhouse of the railways, had returned home from duty when he was shot.

A murder case was lodged against unidentified criminals on the basis of the statement of deceased's son. Following the incident, GRP's superintendent of police Ashok Kumar Singh constituted an SIT to crack the case.

The SIT arrested one of the suspects identified as Sakshi Kumari, the daughter-in-law of the victim. On sustained interrogation, she broke down and confessed to the crime.

"Everything was well planned, but the accused made some mistake on the basis of which she was nabbed within six days of the incident. During the primary interrogation, the accused confessed that she hatched a conspiracy to eliminate her father-in-law in order to secure a government job for her husband on compensatory grounds if Choudhary died in harness," said Barauni SHO Mohammad Imran Alam.

The SHO said that Sakshi hired contract killers with the help of her boyfriend and offered ₹2 lakh. As per a standing circular issued by the department of personnel and training of the Union government, in case of natural death or accidental death of a government employee during his/her service period, the eldest ward of the deceased government servant will be considered for employment in a job suitable to his qualification in a Class 3 or 4 post. The SHO said raids are on to nab Sakshi's boyfriend as well as the contract killers.

In another case, the Patna police cracked the sensational murder of one Amrendra Kumar (48), schoolteacher of Mahendru middle school by arresting his wife, her paramour and two hired killers on Tuesday. Amrendra was gunned down on March 19 when he and his wife Pratima Kumari (41), a lawyer in Patna City court, along with their daughter were on way to Daniyawan from Ramkrishna Nagar locality in two separate vehicles to make payment for the purchase of a plot of land.

Two assailants on a bike intercepted Amrendra near Shukulpur and shot him from the back. During investigation police found that the assailants could not touch a sum of ₹4 lakh which the victim was carrying.

"Police initially started the investigation as insider role in the murder. Acting on a tip-off two persons identified as -Bimlesh Kumar alias Chhotan and Nikhil Kumar Pandey alias Golu (both from Buxar) - were detained for interrogation," rural SP Kantesh Kumar Mishra said.

"During interrogation they revealed that Sunil Kumar Goswami, close relative of Chhotan hired him as a contract killer to eliminate school teacher and offered ₹4 lakh"

Goswami, who is also a lawyer, paid ₹50,000 in advance to the killers while Pratima provide location of her husband through Goswami.

"Pratima has admitted her involvement, following which, Goswami was arrested. A motorcycle which was used in the crime was recovered and five cell phones were seized from their possession," the rural SP said.

The accused have been identified as Afsar Khan (41) and his lover Tasleem Banu (29), Tabrez Pasha (26), Sayed Wasim (26), Venkatesh (19), Barath (18), Yugendra (19), Chethan (19) and Ibrahim (19).

Police said that after attacking Mohammed Shafi on the road in Gurappanapalya, the accused escaped. A case was registered, and later, the police traced and arrested the accused. During the probe, it was revealed that Afsar and Tasleem had given supari to the men.

Afsar had met Tasleem in a wedding two years ago and the two started talking to each other, which later turned into an affair. To get her husband out of the way, Afsar and Tasleem hatched a plan and decided to give a supari. She gained her husband's trust and convinced him to invest Rs 75 lakh in real estate business through Afsar and gave him a commission of Rs. 5 lakh. Under the pretext of meeting him for business, the two continued their affair. But to eliminate Shafi from their lives, they tried to kill him by using black magic and when that did not work, they hired supari killers.

Afsar assigned his relatives, Tabrez and Wasim, who already had a criminal background, to the job. The two involved their friends and gave them Rs. 2 lakh each.

On March 19, Afsar called Shafi to come to Gurappanapalya to take the commission amount for the business and waited with his men to kill him. Once he reached the spot, they killed him and escaped.

Police managed to arrest nine people in connection with the case and are on the lookout for others.

THIRUVANANTHAPURAM: A homemaker and her lover were arrested by the Aryanad police on Wednesday for the alleged murder of her husband who died of stab wounds. Anju, 26, and her paramour Sreeju, 30, were charged with fatally stabbing Arun at their house near Kulappada on the outskirts of the capital city.

Aryanad police said Anju and Sreeju -- who was Arun's friend -- had been in a relationship for quite some time. Being an AC mechanic who was employed in the capital city, Arun used to visit his wife only once in a while. After the relationship between Arun and Anju became strained recently, Anju gravitated towards Sreeju, who worked as a lorry driver, police said.

Arun grew bitter after learning about the relationship from his friends. On Tuesday, he came to Anju's house without informing her. Sreeju too was present there. The two had a duel over the matter and in the middle of a melee, Sreeju stabbed Arun, the police said.

Though neighbours rushed the injured Arun to hospital, his life could not be saved. Sreeju fled the house leaving behind his two-wheeler. The woman was arrested from her place while Sreeju was nabbed from his house at Anad.

BENGALURU: A property-related dispute between a man and his family members ended in his murder. The culprits, however, made it look like he had died in a road accident.

Probe by Whitefield traffic police revealed Subbarayappa, 58, a farmer from Gunjur, was killed in an accident that was executed according to a plan.

Police said a speeding SUV hit Subbarayappa's moped around 7.45pm on January 21 on Nerige-Gunjur Road. Whitefield traffic police took up a hit-and-run case against unknown miscreants based on a complaint from Subbarayappa's elder son GS Devaraj.

The villagers, however, suspected something amiss and informed police. M Narayana, deputy commissioner of police (traffic east), inspector SR Manjunath and other police officials visited the spot. They too suspected something foul within 100 metres of a speedbreaker on the road, where the accident occurred. They thought any vehicle speeding immediately after a speed-breaker seemed improbable.

Narayana formed a special team to trace the vehicle and identified it as the one belonging to a car rental firm. A person named Anil Kumar, 28, from Gunjurpalya had booked the vehicle for four days starting January 2.

"Our police personnel scanned footages from more than 80 CCTV cameras in the locality, collected GPS data of the said car from the rental firm and also analysed the call records of Kumar and Subbarayappa before zeroing in on the former. He confessed to the crime and revealed that he had taken a Rs 6-lakh contract to kill Subbarayappa in a road accident. Subbarayappa's wife Yashodamma and children GS Bharath and GS Devaraj had paid him Rs 4.3 lakh till the time of his arrest. An advocate planned the entire crime," said DCP Narayan.

According to police, Subbarayappa had got around an acre of agricultural land from his family's ancestral property. He didn't have good relationship with his wife and would threaten his son that he wouldn't give his property to them if they didn't take good care of him.

"A few years ago, Yashodamma and her sons, Bharath, a lecturer and Devaraj, a farmer, asked Subbarayappa to give them surety for a loan they were taking to start a business. Subbarayappa agreed to it, but his sons got ownership of Subbarayappa's property transferred to them as a gift. Subbarayappa got angry on learning about the gift deed and filed a civil suit against his wife and sons. The trio planned to kill him and hired Kumar, a childhood friend of Devaraj, to execute their plan," a police officer said.

Cops said Yashodamma and her sons approached an advocate on how to murder Subbarayappa. The advocate allegedly drew up the murder plot. Devaraj chose Kumar, a driver by profession, to execute their plan.

On January 10, Kumar purchased a new sim and booked the car using the same number. He destroyed the mobile and sim minutes after the murder. He then borrowed a cellphone from a passerby and called Yashodamma to inform them about the murder. Kumar also took help from his friends - Nagesh and Dhanush - to execute the job.

Subbarayappa had grown flat beans (avarekai) on his one-acre plot. Kumar contacted him on the pretext of purchasing the beans and used the temporary sim to communicate with him.

Subbarayappa was on his way to deliver flat beans to Kumar, when the plan was executed. His call reports revealed Kumar had made the last call to him on the day of murder. Kumar drove the rental vehicle to Nagesh's village in Mulabagil taluk. They changed the bonnet, lights and other parts of the SUV to destroy evidence. Whitefield traffic police arrested Kumar and handed him over to Varthur police for further probe. Yashodamma, Bharath, Devaraj and Kumar's friends Nagesh and Dhanush are at large. The advocate too is absconding.

The police has arrested 41-year-old Babita in the murder case of her husband.

New Delhi: The police have arrested a 41-year-old woman for conspiring with a person, with whom she was allegedly having an affair, to kill her husband who was yesterday shot at in South Delhi's Defence Colony area. The victim, a contractual driver with BSES Rajdhani Power, survived the gunshot to his neck.

The police today arrested the woman, identified as Babita, and her partner, 23-year-old Rohan, who attacked her husband, the 45-year-old Bhimraj, a resident of Chirag Delhi.

The incident took place yesterday morning a little before 9am - the police were informed that a motorcycle rider had shot Bhimraj while he was inside a car in the Andrews Ganj locality.

The injured man was shifted to the All India Institute of Medical Sciences (AIIMS) where he is undergoing treatment. Prima facie, the police viewed the incident as based on enmity, according to a PTI report.

CCTV footage from the area showed the bike used by the attacker, but the registration number was not immediately visible, a police statement said. An expanded search led the police to zero-in on the number, based on which they used the insurance details to approach a resident of the Rana Pratap Nagar shantytown. The man, however, said he had sold the bike to a persona named Lakhan, a Kamala Nagar resident. Lakhan, in turn, led the police to Rohan, alias Manish, of Govindpuri, to whom the vehicle had subsequently been sold, the police said. The police also found CCTV footage of Rohan walking away after parking the bike and carrying a helmet.

CCTV footage shows Rohan walking by after parking the bike.

On being questioned, Rohan initially told officials that he had been in a confrontation with Bhimraj in a road-rage incident a few days ago. Yesterday's attack, he said, was a culmination of that quarrel. The investigators, however, felt something amiss after going through the victim's and Rohan's call records. Further questioning unravelled the 23-year-old's story, according to the police.

He then revealed his four-month-old romantic affair with Babita, and told the police that Bhimraj, after coming to know of the matter, had beaten up his wife. She, in turn, asked Rohan to kill him so that they could unite, the police said. On her instigation, he bought a country-made firearm and ammunition and carried out yesterday's attack.

Domestic violence is suspected to be the cause.

The matter came to light when Neha Pawar (29) called up a relative informing that her husband Lokesh (30) had met with a motorbike accident in the wee hours of Sunday and was serious.

The relative rushed to the couple's fourth floor flat in Jeevdani Apartment, Chandansar, Virar (east) at around 3.30am.

He was shocked to find Lokesh lying in a pool of blood.

The two-wheeler was parked in the building compound and there was no sign of an accident.

He informed the Virar police who reached the flat and arrested Neha.

The body has been sent for autopsy.

Neha told the police that they fought over trivial domestic issues and in a fit of anger, she stabbed him on the abdomen. He bled to death.

The couple's seven-year-old son was at his grandparents' home.

Lokesh worked for an event management company.

The couple were colleagues in the company, where they fell in love and married eight years ago.

The couple stayed in Nalasopara and had moved to the rented flat in Virar a year ago.

Neha told the police that Lokesh had turned alcoholic in the past few years and used to torture her physically.

Police suspect that the harassment may have got worse during the lockdown.

A case of murder has been registered against Neha.

Woman, lover held for murder of physically challenged husband in Alwar

Mar 5, 2021

ALWAR: Solving the murder case of a 34-year-old man who was physically challenged, the ANEB police station of Alwar on Thursday arrested wife of the deceased and her male companion for the conspiracy and execution.

Soon after visiting the crime scene, police was confident about the role of the wife of the deceased and thus she was taken in custody for interrogation. Sanjay was found dead under mysterious circumstances at his home on March 2.

"After the murder when we visited the spot, the activities of Laxmi, 30, the wife of the man who was murdered, were a little suspicious. We took her in custody and a woman cop interrogated her sternly," said a senior police officer on Thursday.

It was found that the woman had an affair with Ravindra, who is a cousin of her husband, for the past 15 years. "The woman stated that after the accident of her husband Sanjay, he was bed-ridden and she was not allowed to go outside every now and then. Thus the woman had planned for the murder and with the help of her male companion, she eliminated her husband," the officer added.

After getting corroborating evidences and confession of the woman, police on Thursday arrested Laxmi and Ravindra.

Police said Ravindra visited Laxmi in the afternoon on Tuesday and both strangulated the victim. "The matter came to light when Sanjay's son returned and saw his father bleeding profusely from the ears. His mother was missing from home. Thereafter, the family raised an alarm and intimated us," the officer added. The couple has two married daughters and a son.

Mother, her lover arrested for 2019 twin murder of two children in Patiala

In July 2019, the disappearance of the two siblings from Kheri Gandian village of Ghanaur block in the district had led to huge protests against police and had become a political issue

Mar 04, 2021

A less than 30 second call which later went unexplained and some technical details led the Patiala police to solve an over year-and-a-half old twin murder case with the arrest of the mother of the victims and her lover.

The police on Wednesday arrested the mother of the two kids and her lover, related to her husband, on charges of murder.

Patiala SSP Vikramjeet Duggal said Manjit Kaur (mother of the kids) and her lover Baljit Singh hatched a conspiracy to eliminate both the kids as they felt they might come in the way of their marriage in the future.

"Baljit Singh took the children along on the pretext of a joyride and showing them the canal waters, where the kids would play and enjoy. As they reached the banks of the canal, Baljit Singh pushed both the kids into canal waters and left the place, leaving the innocent kids to die," said Duggal.

In July 2019, the disappearance of the two siblings from Kheri Gandian village of Ghanaur block in the district had led to huge protests against police and had become a political issue.

The infamous case had hogged the limelight in 2019 when brothers, Hasandeep and Jashandeep, aged 6 and 10, respectively, went missing and later their bodies were recovered from Sarala head of Bhakra canal, later the family did not identify the bodies.

"All round efforts on all fronts by the investigation team led by DSP Ghanour, Jaswinder Singh Tiwana and his team resulted in the detection of the case," said the SSP.

Insiders said the clinching evidence was found in which Baljit Singh who was working at his denting shop, received a phone call of few seconds just half an hour before the alleged murders and later that phone number was switched off.

"Police investigations found that the phone was made from a SIM card issued to Baljit Singh. He was rounded up and when grilled by police, he accepted his involvement claiming that the phone was with Manjit Kaur who had called to tell him that the kids were left alone near the canal," they said.

"Finally the team could recreate the entire chain of events, connecting each and every single dot to conclude that the accused were actually the perpetrators of this sensational and heinous crime," said Duggal.

Police have arrested both accused and added Sections 302 and 120-B of Indian Penal Code and have procured five days police remand of the two accused.

Explained: Who is Shabnam, the first woman who could be hanged since 1947?

Shabnam along with her lover Saleem was convicted of killing seven members of her family in 2008. If executed, she will be the first woman in independent India to be hanged for a crime.

March 4, 2021

On February 18, the 12-year-old son of Shabnam, a death row convict from Uttar Pradesh's Amroha, appealed to President Ram Nath Kovind to "forgive" his mother. The same day, Shabman filed a second mercy petition with the Governor of Uttar Pradesh and the President of India, both of whom have earlier rejected her plea.

If executed, Shabnam will be the first woman in independent India to be hanged for a crime.

Only one jail in India -- the one in Mathura -- has the provisions for hanging a woman convict. Pawan Kumar, the hangman in the December 2012 New Delhi gangrape case, has recently been quoted as saying by media outlets that he had been to the Mathura jail to see if the execution room was in working order.

What Shabnam was convicted of Shabnam along with her lover Saleem was convicted of killing seven members of her family in 2008 -- father Shaukat Ali (55), mother Hashmi (50), elder brother Anees (35), Anees's wife Anjum (25), younger brother Rashid (22), cousin Rabia (14), and Arsh, Anees's 10-month-old son.

Shabnam, belonging to the Saifi Muslim community, lived in Bawankhedi, a village in Hasanpur tehsil of Amroha in western Uttar Pradesh. A post-graduate in two subjects, English and Geography, she worked as a shiksha mitra (government school teacher). Her family was opposed to her relationship with Saleem, a Class VI dropout, who worked at a wood sawing unit outside their home and belonged to the Pathan community.

According to the prosecution case, on the intervening night of April 14-15, Shabnam sedated six of her family members -- everyone except the baby Arsh. Saleem then chopped their heads off with an axe, while Shabnam held them by their hair. She throttled her 10-month-old nephew. With the rest of her family dead, Shabnam would have been the sole heir to their house and other property.

When Shabnam and Saleem were arrested five days after the crime, they were both in their 20s, and Shabnam was seven weeks pregnant. In December of that year, she gave birth to her son.

In 2010, an Amroha sessions court sentenced them to death, which was upheld by the Allahabad High Court in 2013 and the Supreme Court in May 2015. Within 10 days, however, the Apex Court stayed the death warrants.

In September 2015, then-Uttar Pradesh Governor Ram Naik rejected Shabnam's plea for mercy, which she had sought on the ground of her responsibilities towards her son, Mohammad Taj. In August 2016, then President Pranab Mukherjee rejected her mercy petition.

In January 2020, a Supreme Court bench headed by CJI SA Bobde upheld the death sentence.

What Shabnam claimed

Shabnam was the one who had raised the alarm about her family's murder. She had initially claimed that unknown assailants had entered her home and killed everyone.

However, during the trial, the couple turned against each other. The 2015 Supreme Court judgment says that in her Section 313 statement, Shabnam said Saleem had entered the house with a knife through the roof and killed all her family members while she was asleep. Saleem, on the other hand, said he reached the house "only on the request of Shabnam" and that when he reached there, she confessed to having killed the others.

Seven years after the crime, when her son was being sent to foster care, Shabnam had claimed she feared for his life, as the "people who had killed her family over a property dispute could harm him too".

Legal options still available with Shabnam

Before she is hanged, Shabnam still has some legal remedies left with her. On February 19, the day after she filed fresh mercy petitions with the Governor and the President, Shabnam's lawyer, Advocate Shreya Rastogi, said in a statement, "Shabnam has very important constitutional remedies that remain to be exercised. These include the right to challenge the rejection of her mercy petition before the Allahabad High Court and the Supreme Court on various grounds and also the right to file a curative petition in the Supreme Court against the decision on the review petition."

The curative petition can challenge the Supreme Court decision of January 2020, which upheld her death sentence.

Also, under the law, if multiple people have been sentenced to death in the same case, they have to be executed together. So, Shabnam and Saleem can be hanged only after both of them exhaust all their legal recourses.

Shabnam's son

Shabnam's son stayed with her in jail for the first few years of his life. In 2015, he had to be sent to foster care as according to the jail manual, women inmates can't keep children above six years of age with them.

Taj now lives with journalist Usman Saifi, who was Shabnam's college junior, and his wife Suhina.

Saifi had told The Indian Express in 2015: "The Shabnam you hear of, the woman on death row, is not the Shabnam I know. We went to the same college... She once paid my college fee when I couldn't, she would help me with my notes and stand up for me in college. All this, just like an elder sister would. So when this happened, I was shocked. I told my wife that I owe a lot to Shabnam and must do this for her."

Other women on death row in India

According to a 2016 report on the death penalty in India by National Law University, New Delhi, 12 women are on death row in the country, and all belong to "backward classes and religious minorities".

Another case where the convicts' mercy petitions has been rejected by the President is that of Renuka Shinde and Seema Mohan Gavit, sisters convicted of kidnapping and killing several children in Maharashtra towns between 1990 and 1996.

Charged along with their mother Anjana with the kidnapping of 13 children and the murder of 10 of them, they were convicted by the Supreme Court in 2006 of five of those murders, besides the kidnappings. According to the sisters' defence counsel, the murders were committed by their mother -- who died two years after their arrest in 1996 -- and the sisters were framed by Kiran Shinde, Renuka's husband, who turned approver.

The women would kidnap children to use them either as props or distractions during pickpocketing and petty thefts. Later, they would kill them.

The sisters were convicted by a Kolhapur sessions court in June 2001. The Bombay High Court upheld the death penalty given to them in 2004, and the Supreme Court in 2006. In 2014, then-President Pranab Mukherjee rejected their mercy petition.

Both the accused, Sarita Shekhar Kanojia (38) and Pankaj Chandrakant Kadu (25), are residents of Sonegaon, Juni Vasti, Khamla Road.

Sarita lived with her husband Shekhar in Sharda Nagar area where they ran an ironing shop, said police sources

Sarita had an affair with Kadu who lived the same area, following which Shekhar left home and started to live with his brother, police said.

When Shekhar returned home after a few months and frequently quarreled with Sarita over her extramarital affair, she and Kadu decided to kill him, police said.

On Monday morning, the duo allegedly killed Shekhar by attacking him with sharp weapons.

Sarita then called the Police Control Room and said her husband was lying unconscious. When the police arrived, she and Kadu fled.

Both were arrested on Friday under IPC section 302 (murder) and further probe is on, police said.

Story of a murder... A body in a drain & a dead man who 'texted'

Feb 8, 2021

FARIDABAD: When an investigation trail led police to Dinesh Dhawan's house in the last week of January, his wife Anu greeted them. What, she inquired, had brought them to her doorstep? The cops asked about her husband's whereabouts. She told them work had taken him to Jharkhand for a couple of weeks.

She asked again what was wrong. They had been texting regularly. She showed the cops some of the messages. Surely, if something was wrong, she would know?

It was the discovery of a body on January 28 - when it was found bobbing at the surface of the drain in the Dabua area of the NCR city - that the police were investigating. Inquiries, locally, revealed some of Dhawan's friends and acquaintances had been wondering where he was. They hadn't seen him or heard from him since January 11. But there was no 'missing' complaint. The cops from Dabua police station had decided to visit Dhawan's house on January 29 and check for themselves.

From Anu's reactions, plus the WhatsApp messages, nothing seemed amiss. Anu had also introduced the cops to an "uncle", who happened to be in the house when they visited. Dhawan, he too said, was in Jharkhand. It was, perhaps, a false alarm, and the search ought to move on to a person who actually was missing.

Police had also inquired with others in the neighbourhood, and a local resident had identified the body from photos the cops had taken as Dhawan's. But Anu and her 'uncle' Harjeet were so relaxed, the neighbour must have made a mistake? The body was decomposed, and that could be a factor? The cops had shown Anu and Harjeet the photo as well of the body they had found. But both were dismissive, and they had been telling them he was in Jharkhand.

Then, the phone spoke up.

Mobiles have other ways of talking than text messages. The texts Anu had shown the cops screamed Jharkhand, but when investigators looked up the location of Dhawan's phone, they found it to be stationary in Faridabad. Was it possible, then, that Dhawan was actually in the city and Anu didn't know?

The bearer of the mobile phone was traced easily. It wasn't Dhawan but a man called Vishnu. A friend of Nitin. Nitin, who? This is where the road began leading back to Anu.

Dhawan wasn't in Jharkhand, he couldn't have been. The 50-year-old real estate dealer lay, dead, first inside the box bed in his Sainik Colony house and then at the bottom of the drain a few kilometres away. He was murdered on January 11. The body had floated into sight 17 days later. On February 2, Anu was arrested for his murder, as were Nitin, Harjeet and Vishnu and two others, Deepak and Vineet.

Yasheen Khan, the additional SHO of Dabua police station, said the control room had received a call about a decomposed body in the nullah on January 28, following which it was fished out and an identification process initiated, as is procedure. "We went to Dhawan's house and showed photographs of the body to Anu and Harjeet, who tried to misguide us, saying Dhawan had gone to Jharkhand," said Khan. In the meantime, police checked with Dhawan's friends and they too identified the body. "After this, we tracked the location of Dhawan's phone. When we found it was in Faridabad, Anu became our prime suspect," said Khan, adding she was called to the police station for questioning. The Jharkhand ruse fell apart.

Anu and Dhawan had been married 11 years. They had known each other before that. She was a tenant in his brother's house. They met and struck a bond, and in 2010, got married. The couple moved to Sainik Colony, where Dhawan had a flat.

But their relationship had soured, police said. Besides, Dhawan had last year come under financial stress because the lockdown had hit his earnings. He allegedly became sullen and took to alcohol. This, according to police, strained their ties further. In the meantime, Nitin, a friend of Dhawan's, became someone Anu confided in. They began seeing each other, police said. Anu and Nitin, according to investigators, plotted Dhawan's murder because they wanted to be together. They found accomplices in Harjeet, who Anu knew, and three of Nitin's friends.

On the night of January 11, when Dhawan went to bed, Nitin and his friends were let in by Anu, police said. They allegedly strangled Dhawan and smashed his head with a blunt object. Initially, they kept the body in the bathroom. A few hours later, after Harjeet arrived, they wrapped the body in plastic and blankets, stowed it inside the bed and cleaned the house, police said.

In the meantime, the Jharkhand story was cooked up. In the crudely executed plan, Vishnu was given the job of keeping Dhawan "alive", by using his phone to text Anu.

But there was a problem. The body began emitting a stink after a few days, strong enough to send wafts of suspicion through the building. On January 18, police found, the suspects took the body out of the house and put it in a tempo. They poured acid on the face to disfigure it and dumped it in the drain. The bed was cleaned and kept on the terrace to dry. "She told us a rat had died in the bed box," said a neighbour.

Anu and the others have been booked under sections 302 (murder), 201 (destruction of evidence), 120B (criminal conspiracy) and 34 (common intention) of the IPC. Anu, police said, comes from a modest family. She had worked at different places (private organisations). She quit after marriage to take care of the household. Nitin is also a property dealer and has regular rental income from property he has in Faridabad, police said. Anu and Dhawan have a five-yearold daughter, whose custody is now with Anu's mother. "They were taking good care of the kid. Now, Anu's mother is looking after her," a police officer said.

Police said the body of an unidentified man was found in a drain on January 28. Subsequent inquiries revealed that the deceased was identified as Dinesh, a resident of Sanik Colony. He used to work as a property dealer.

How it happened

During investigation, the police found that Dinesh's wife was having an extramarital affair with a man, identified as Nitin. She saw Dinesh as a hurdle in her relationship with Nitin. Therefore, she conspired with a man named Harjeet Singh, whom she addressed as 'chacha' (uncle), her paramour and his friends to eliminate him. Nitin paid Rs 41,000 to his friends for the job.

On the intervening night of January 11-12, the accused woman, her paramour and his two friends - identified as Vineet and Vishnu - brutally assaulted Dinesh with a wooden stick and then strangled him to death. Thereafter, they stuffed his body in a sack and kept it in the bathroom. As per the plan, Harjeet was also supposed to be the part of the murder, but he didn't arrive on time. By the time he arrived, Dinesh had already been killed, according to a report by AajTak.

The accused woman stayed put in the house with her husband's body for almost one week. On January 18, when the stench began emanating from the body, her paramour, along with a friend named Deepak, secretly dumped it in a drain in Dabua area. Later, police recovered the body and sent it for post-mortem examination. Police said the accused woman has been arrested and efforts are underway to nab other suspects. The wooden stick used in the crime has been recovered, they added.

A block level leader of the Janata Dal (United), Sumarik Yadav was killed at Neemchak Bathani bazar in Bihar's Gaya on February 26, 2013. A preliminary probe had revealed that Yadav's murder the outcome of a political rivalry.

JD(U) leader Sumarik Yadav was returning home after locking up the party office when he was beaten to death by unknown persons.

The additional public prosecutor in the case told national daily Times of India that witnesses claimed to have heard Kunti Devi instigating the attackers to attack Sumirak Yadav because she had lost the election to him. At least two of the 12 eyewitnesses turned hostile during the course of the trial, he added.

Apart from Kunti Devi, her two sons were also named as accused in the case. One of her sons, Ajay Kumar Yadav is the sitting MLA from Atri Assembly constituency that falls under the Jahanabad Lok Sabha seat in Bihar's Gaya district.

It is also important to note that Kunti Devi's husband, Rajendra Yadav, is currently serving life imprisonment. A former MLA from Atri, Rajendra Yadav was convicted for the death of a minor girl as the result of celebratory firing in 2005.

BENGALURU: Madanayakanahalli police arrested a 44-year-old woman and her boyfriend on Monday for allegedly murdering her husband six months ago to clear hurdles to their relationship. According to police, Shivalinga, 46, who ran a hotel at Bannerghatta, was allegedly killed by his wife Shobha, 44, and former employee Ramu, 45. All three are residents of Thotadaguddadahalli.

Police said the accused duo murdered Shivalinga on June 1

Police said the accused duo murdered Shivalinga on June 1 and later covered it up by informing Shivalinga's relatives and friends that he had fled with Rs 1.3 lakh cash from home. But the incident came to light recently after Shivalinga's brother Puttaraju discovered the illicit relationship between Shobha and Ramu.

Police said Shivalinga initially ran a roadside eatery at Thotadaguddadahalli village and Ramu was his employee. Shivalinga had opened a hotel at Bannerghatta and concentrated on improving it. His wife and Ramu were taking care of his roadside eatery. Shivalinga would stay at his new hotel for weeks and this helped Shobha and Ramu get closer.

"Shivalinga closed his hotel due to Covid-19 and stayed back at his residence. He came to know about his wife's extramarital affair and this led to clashes between him and the suspects. The duo bludgeoned him to death and dumped his body in a grove nearby," a police officer said.

In the first week of June, Madanayakanahalli police had found a highly decomposed body and performed the final rites as no one came forward to claim it.

Shivalinga's parents and relatives from his hometown of Kunigal enquired about him as they couldn't contact him. Shobha told them that her husband left home with Rs 1.3 lakh cash and he might return once he spent all the money. Puttaraju was not satisfied with her answer. NEW DELHI: A Delhi court has convicted a woman and her purported lover for murdering the woman's husband. The court observed that an "illicit relationship was the biggest weapon of cheating that destroyed" a family.

Additional sessions judge Vinod Yadav also said, "Illicit relationships are a perfect mix for disaster. Most times, it turns the family system into hell."

The woman, Shanti, and her brother-in-law (sister's husband) Satender, were accused of killing her husband Dilip in 2015.

Holding that they were in an "illicit relationship", the court said, "Deceased being found dead within the secured precincts of his house raises an irresistible inference that he was murdered by the accused persons in a pre-planned conspiracy."

Dilip's postmortem suggested the cause for his death to be asphyxiation. Police claimed that the wife was having an affair with Satender, who was living in their house at the time of Dilip's death. The allegation was supported by the testimony of Dilip's sister-in-law who claimed to have seen both accused in a "compromising position".

Shanti's arrest led to the seizure of certain household items, including rat kill. In her defense in court, her counsel argued that Dilip died after falling from the stairs as he was heavily drunk. Satender, on the other hand, argued it was Dilip's sister-in-law who had framed him in the case for he had refused to partner with her in his business.

They both also said that seizures made by police had actually been planted on them.

Commenting on the nature of evidence brought on record, the court highlighted five such circumstances - most important one relating to the crime scene - to hold it was a murder. "The onus was on the persons residing in the house, i.e., Shanti and co-accused Satender to give a cogent explanation with regard to the sudden, unnatural and untimely death of Dilip, which admittedly they have failed to do," it said.

Equality, Justice and Harmony

We fight for Equality among gender, Justice to all and Family Harmony

To show why the murder charge couldn't be proved against his client, the defense counsel submitted that some of the family members, who deposed as star witnesses in the case, had turned hostile. He said there was not even an iota of evidence or statement to prove an "illicit relationship" between the two accused persons.

Dealing with the submission, the court noted that the testimony of hostile witnesses couldn't be rejected "en block" (all at the same time) and the court had to look at evidence of the hostile witnesses to corroborate other evidence on record.

The court relied on the testimony of Dilip's sister-in-law saying it couldn't be just discarded as the defense didn't agree with it. "If such a sole testimony is found by the court to be entirely reliable, there is no legal impediment to the conviction of the accused persons on such proof," it added.

argument. The prosecution has argued that she was frustrated with an alleged illicit relationship Rohit had, and a motive to grab his property.

Additional Sessions Judge Sandeep Yadav denied bail to Apoorva, who filed her second bail plea through her lawyer Mehmood Pracha.

The court, in its order dated November 25, said, "While deciding the bail application, position and status of the accused has to be seen and considered. The applicant was married to the deceased and is a part of the family. Many public witnesses associated with the deceased's family are yet to be examined. Applicant being part of the family is definitely in a position to influence public witnesses who are yet to be examined." It said the seriousness and gravity of offence are relevant factors while considering a bail plea.

Pracha had told the court that 11 witnesses have already been examined by the court and there was "no possibility of any witness being influenced by the accused". Referring to the testimony of a prosecution witness, Pracha told the court that the witness did not state that the accused suspected her husband of being in an illicit relationship, hence the prosecution could not prove a motive.

The court, however, said, "It is settled that a detailed examination of evidence that has to come on record is not warranted when deciding the bail application as it may prejudice the case of the prosecution or of the accused."

L D Singh, Additional Public Prosecutor appearing for Delhi Police, had argued that Apoorva was not even a suspect, but was later found to be with her husband at the time of death, as per post-mortem. Singh told the court she was the last person seen on the first floor in CCTV footage. The court said, "The case is based on circumstantial evidence. Motive on part of applicant/accused to commit the crime is evident from testimony of prosecution witness-9. There is scientific evidence in the form of CCTV footage in which accused is seen as the last person to go to the first floor where the murder... took place. Therefore, prime facie case against accused is evident from evidence collected during probe and evidence that has been led so far."

Hyderabad techie burnt alive, wife, in-laws arrested

HYDERABAD: A software engineer from Hyderabad was tied to a chair and burnt alive in a village in Jagtial on Monday night on the suspicion of performing black magic and causing the death of his brother-in-law. Following a complaint by family of the deceased, Racharla Pawan Kumar, six members of his in-laws' family and a family friend were arrested on Tuesday.

Pawan's (40) wife Krishnaveni, who was also arrested, alleged her sister-in-law Raparthi Sumalatha set her husband ablaze.

Police said the accused had decided to kill Pawan after they were convinced he had got black magic performed on his brother-in-law Jagan, who died of a heart attack 12 days ago.

Pawan, who is a resident of Alwal, was employed in Bengaluru.

Police, who registered an FIR, arrested Raparthi family members - Sumalatha, Krishnaveni, Vijay, Premeela, Ramadevi Swaroopa and Gangabhavani - and Uppu Niranjan Reddy, who is associated with their family.

Circle inspector of Malyala police station Kishore said the murder was planned in advance. The in-laws' family got Pawan come to Balwantpur village and took him to a room at Manjunatha ashram where the family was staying. Kishore said they tied him up around 6.30 pm, poured petrol over him and set him on fire. Pawan's father Racharla Gangadhar lodged a complaint against the family following which the FIR was registered, the arrests were made and the accused sent to judicial remand.

Jagtial district SP Sindhu Sharma, who visited the ashram, told TOI that in the preliminary probe they found out that Vijay and Niranjana had gone to a petrol bunk to buy fuel which was used to torch Pawan. "This has been captured in CCTV camera. Parents of Pawan also provided us information about family disputes and raised suspicions about Krishnaveni's role," Sharma said.

On Monday night after the incident, Krishnaveni told reporters that her elder brother Jagan had died of a heart attack 12 days ago. She came to Balwantpur after his death and stayed back. "I asked my husband not to come to the village as I feared he would be attacked. For the last several days, I was tortured and abused by Sumalatha who thinks my husband was behind Jagan's death by getting black magic performed on him," Krishnaveni said.

Recalling the incident, Krishnaveni said, "I was asked to go out and fetch water. When I heard cries for help, I rushed and saw flames and smoke billowing out of the room. I shouted for help and then I fell unconscious."

Pawan had once warned Jagan in connection with a family dispute which, Krishnaveni said, was not to the liking of Sumalatha. "My sister-in-law kept this in mind and waited to seek revenge. Though my brother had died of a health issue, she held my husband responsible for his death and set him ablaze," Krishnaveni alleged.

A young woman brutally murdered her husband's foster family, killing his two aunts -- Marta Clementina Lobo (64) and Vera Lobo (62) -- with the help of a hired killer on Sunday evening, the Goa police have said.

Rovina Lobo (29) and her accomplice Subhan Rajyaballi (28) were arrested by the police in the wee hours of Monday morning after Rovina's husband, Julio (32), who was out of the house at the time of the incident, complained to the police.

Julio was brought up under the care of his aunts, Marta and Vera, both of whom were unmarried and Rovina joined the family in their house after her marriage to Julio. However, relations between her and his aunts quickly deteriorated amid allegations that she was being harassed by his aunts, which led her to plan the murder.

The family was living in Siolim village in North Goa, while Julio's parents are living in another house in the same village.

"Rovina hired Subhan Rajyaballi (to commit the murder) as both the aunts were not on good terms with her for a long time. They committed the murder with sharp weapons," Anjuna police inspector Suraj Gawas, said.

The duo was first battered with a pedestal fan then struck with a koita (billhook) until they passed away.

The couple has two children -- a daughter aged seven and a son aged one-- with the elder of the two having witnessed the murders and reported it to her father when he returned home, leading to the complaint.

The woman and her accomplice left the crime scene with her younger child, leaving the elder one behind. Both have been arrested.

Jayamala, the suspect, accompanied by three of her relatives, arrived at her husband's house in Sowcarpet and held talks with them about the alimony.

12th November 2020

CHENNAI: The Chennai city police have launched a manhunt for four relatives of the three people murdered in Sowcarpet on Wednesday night. The relatives, including a woman, allegedly visited the house of the deceased at a particular time on Wednesday after which the three were found dead.

The deceased -- 74-year-old Dileep Thalil Chand, who ran a finance firm, his wife 70-year-old Pushpa Bhai, and their son 40-year-old Sheetal -- were shot dead at their house on the first floor of the three-storey residential apartment on Vinayaga Maestri Street in Sowcarpet. They were found dead in a pool of blood by the daughter of elderly couple on Wednesday night, hours after their death.

Based on preliminary investigations, police said that a car with four people, including Sheetal's estranged wife Jayamala and her brother Vikas, had pulled up in front of the house close to the time of the murder.

Police said they learned that Sheetal was separated from his wife and children due to differences and their divorce case was pending in the court. Relatives of the deceased had reportedly told the police that the deceased's in-laws had demanded a huge sum of money as alimony.

Incidentally, the deceased had lodged a complaint at the Elephant Gate police station in September claiming that his in-laws were bothering the family demanding a huge sum of money. The police, who had issued a CSR (community service register) number at the time, directed them to the courts as it was a civil dispute.

Police said on Wednesday, Jayamala, the suspect, accompanied by three of her relatives, arrived at her husband's house in Sowcarpet and held talks with them about the alimony. Police suspect that the discussion went poorly and the trio were shot dead as a result.

Woman 'kills' Ghaziabad businessman, husband dumps his body

GHAZIABAD: A day after a 38-year-old owner of an electric cable manufacturing unit went missing after he left his factory in Sahibabad, police on Tuesday said they have recovered his body from a cycle track in Link Road area.

Prima facie, it seems that the victim - Ajay Panchal - was strangled with a wire by a 30-year-old woman while her husband dumped the body, police said. They added that it is likely that the victim had an illicit affair with the woman.

Panchal, a well-known industrialist in Ghaziabad, was the owner of Allied Cable Factory - an electricity cable manufacturing unit in Sahibabad.

Ajay lived with his family in Rajendra Nagar. Around 1pm on Monday, Ajay left for home from his factory for lunch. The victim's brother, Kuldeep Panchal, said that at 12.30 pm, Ajay told his wife over the phone that he would be home by 1.15pm.

"When he didn't reach home by 3 pm, his wife tried calling him but his phone was switched off. She then informed other family members. The factory workers said he had left for home at 1.05 pm. Our house in Rajendra Nagar's Sector 2 is around 3 km from the unit. It usually takes 10-15 minutes for a person to reach our house from the factory. His friends too had no clue about him. We then started looking for him," Kuldeep added.

After a few hours, the businessman's family informed the police following which a probe was launched. The police officers spotted Panchal's car near Haj House at 10 pm. Next day at 5 am, the cops found his body after a few passers-by called informed them about the same.

After scanning over 50 CCTV cameras on the stretch from the victim's factory to Haj House, the police, in one of the footage, saw the deceased going to meet a 30-year-old woman at her house near Haj House.

He can be seen parking his car near Haj House before entering her house.

"Prima facie, it seems that the woman killed Ajay with the help of her husband. Both are absconding at the moment. The reason behind the crime might be his illicit relationship with the woman," said Ghaziabad SSP Kalanidhi Naithani.

He also said that the CCTV footage shows the woman's husband dumping Ajay's body on a cycle track in Link Road area. He added that four teams have been formed to nab the accused.

SP (City) Abhishek Verma said after getting the complaint, a search operation was launched and other police stations were also informed about the matter.

"The last location of the victim's mobile phone was traced near Haj House at 2.30 pm and after that, his mobile was switched off. Once we found the victim's car, we lodged an FIR against unknown persons under Section 364 (Kidnapping or abducting in order to murder) of the Indian Penal Code, said Verma.

He added, "Before we found Ajay's body, we had suspected it to be a case of kidnapping for ransom. Later, a murder charge has also been added to the FIR. It is worth noting that the victim's phone, wallet, trousers and shoes were missing."

Police said Ajay's body has been sent for an autopsy and the reports are awaited.

Barasat: Lawyer Anindita Pal was sentenced to life imprisonment by a fast-track court in West Bengal's North 24 Parganas district on Wednesday for strangulating her husband Rajat Dey to death with a mobile phone charger.

Additional district and sessions judge Sujit Kumar Jha, who on Monday convicted her for the murder of her husband, sentenced her to life term and a fine of Rs 10,000.

The court also found her guilty of causing the disappearance of evidence and sentenced her to one year in prison for that. Both the sentences will run concurrently, the judge ordered.

Special public prosecutor Bibhas Chatterjee prayed for the capital punishment to Anindita, claiming that it was a premeditated murder.

The court, however, sentenced her to life imprisonment since she has a three-year-old child, and also because there was no eyewitness and the conviction was based on circumstantial evidence.

As she was being taken to the prison van from the courtroom, Anindita said she was framed and she will fight till the "last drop of blood".

During the trial, the prosecution had claimed that on the intervening night of November 24 and 25, 2018, Anindita strangled her husband Rajat, also a lawyer, with the wire of a mobile phone charger in their New Town flat near Kolkata.

The appeal has asked the apex court to delay the sentence and provide an opportunity to prove her innocence. Nimisha was awarded the death penalty for killing her husband, Talal Abdu Mahadi, and hiding his body in a water tank at home.

Through the appeal, the court has been requested to consider the circumstances that forced Nimisha to commit the murder and the criminal behaviour of Talal Abdu Mahadi, a Yemeni citizen.

A copy of the verdict in the case was obtained through the Indian Embassy. Embassy officials had visited the jail to get the appeal papers signed by Nimisha. They had also hired a Yemeni lawyer to present Nimisha's case.

Efforts are also being made to get the sentence commuted by giving 'blood money' to the family of Talal Abdu Mahadi. According to Yemeni law, the death penalty can be avoided if the family accepts the blood money. The family can also ask the court to release her from prison. The blood money amount required is Rs 70 lakh. Although voluntary organisations are willing to pay the amount, it has not been possible to talk to Talal's family recently. Balachandran had held preliminary talks with the family a few months ago.

A Yemeni citizen had to be hired as the lawyer because the legal system there is different. But it is Balachandran who is coordinating all the other matters related to the case and also providing legal advice.

Balachandran said he believes that Nimisha can be saved from the death penalty. He said he is in constant touch with the Indian Embassy and NORKA.

NORKA officials said they were doing everything possible to secure the release of Nimisha.

The murder for which Nimisha has been awarded the death penalty took place on July 25, 2017. While working as a nurse, Nimisha had sought Talal's help to start her own clinic. After she started the clinic, Talal started taking its money. He became hostile when she questioned him about the embezzlement.

Delhi: No murder charge for 'killing' husband

Aug 26, 2020

NEW DELHI: A murder charge was slapped on a woman for allegedly killing her husband. But a court has sentenced her to 10 years' rigorous imprisonment on the charge of culpable homicide not amounting to murder while stating that she had "exceeded her right of private defence" on being attacked by him. The woman was being tried for killing her husband on September 11, 2014. It came on record that she had acted in retaliation to an attack by her husband, who died three days after the alleged assault on him.

"After getting injuries on her head and face on one hand, the accused would have lost her temper and simultaneously, she would have become worried of her life and limb," additional sessions judge Ajay Gupta noted in the conviction order.

"Under these circumstances, the accused had a right to exercise her right to private defence and assault the deceased back but only to the extent which was necessary for saving herself from the further assaults of the deceased," the court said.

Things turned ugly when the man started hitting the wife with an iron rod. After having suffered injuries on her head, eyes and face, the woman struck back on the man's head with the same object. The man had allegedly told her before the sudden assault, "I am very upset with you."

During an altercation, the deceased became aggressive and suddenly started to assault her, the court said. "It has already been held that on meeting with such a sudden fierce attack, the accused lost her temper and in a fit of rage, she assaulted back the deceased with the same object."

The woman claimed that she tried to snatch the rod from his hands but it fell on the floor. She also claimed she didn't know how he got injured as she was in a semi-unconscious state. The court, however, called it a "false defence" for the man's postmortem report showed otherwise. According to the judgment, the woman had not committed murder punishable under IPC 302, but under Section 304(1) relating to culpable homicide not amounting to murder.

The court said she had committed the crime "with the intention of causing such bodily injury" that she knew was likely to cause. She also knew her act was "so imminently dangerous that it must, in all probability, cause death, or such bodily injury as is likely to cause death or without any excuse". But the act "was not premeditated and she assaulted the deceased under provocation in order to save herself; however, she exceeded the right to private defence and caused serious injuries...which proved fatal", the court held. The woman was also fined Rs 5,000.

sack inside the water tank of their flat in Al Deydh. She was arrested after local residents called in the police citing a stench from their house a few days after the incident.

An advocate with the NRI (Keralites) Commission, K L Balachandran - who had assisted Nimisha in the case - told TNIE that the murder took place in 2017.

"Nimisha, who was working as a nurse in a hospital, wanted to set up a clinic on her own. As only Yemen nationals were allowed to do so, she arranged a fake certificate showing her marriage to Mahdi, who was already married. The certificate enabled the clinic to get a license from the government in 2014," he said.

However, after the certificate was registered, Mahdi forced her into marriage according to the religious customs there and they stayed along with his first wife. "Mahdi used to take all the money received at the clinic and subjected Nimisha to all sorts of torture. He seized her passport and prevented her from leaving the country. He also took away all her ornaments. Nimisha stated she was threatened with a gun several times," Balachandran said.

Talal's family agrees to grant pardon for Rs 70L

Fed up with the torture, Nimisha - along with her Yemeni friend, Hanana, who too was a nurse - murdered Mahdi. Her friend has been sentenced to life imprisonment. The counsel said they have 15 days to appeal to the Supreme Judicial Council. Should the council accept the petition, the accused will get some more time. A mercy petition will also be submitted. "Discussions were held with the family of Talal and they have agreed to grant pardon if they are given a blood money of Rs 70 lakh," he said.

He said efforts are on to generate the funds required to secure Nimisha's release. She is reportedly married to a Thodupuzha native and the couple has a daughter. The father-daughter duo had returned in 2017. The case was referred to Balachandran in 2018 after NORKA-Roots and the Central Government intervened on behalf of Nimisha. The appeals court was scheduled to deliver the verdict originally on December 22, 2019.

The matter was then taken up with the Indian Embassy and the verdict was postponed. The Covid-19 outbreak resulted in the case being postponed until Tuesday.

"The post-mortem has not lead to any final conclusions about the cause of death. The doctors have preserved the visceras and we will wait for the final forensic report before saying anything about how exactly the deaths had occurred," said DCP Neelotpal.

August 19, 2020

The investigation into the sequence of events leading to the death of four members of a family - a couple and their two children, who were found dead in their Nagpur home on Tuesday - indicates that the woman was the one who pulled the curtains down on their lives.

Dhiraj Rane, 42, a lecturer in a reputed college, his doctor wife Sushma, 40, and their two children, 11-year-old Dhruv and five-year-old daughter Vannya, were found dead in their home in the Om Nagar locality around 1 pm on Tuesday. While Rane and the two children were found dead on a bed in one room, Sushma was found hanging from a ceiling fan in an adjacent room.

A syringe and a suicide note were found on the bed, said police.

Sushma had reportedly responded to the call of Dhiraj's paternal aunt Pramila around 11 am on Tuesday, saying they would all get up late.

Deputy Commissioner of Police Neelotpal told The Indian Express, "We have found that Sushma had gone to the hospital along with her daughter between 5.30 am and 6.30 am. Pramila, (Dhiraj's adoptive mother) was asleep. Sushma got a partly-used vial of a medicine used as muscle relaxant, anaesthesia and a syringe from a nurse on some pretext. She apparently used this to kill her husband and two children, before she hanged herself. "

Sushma had put two white flowers in the hands of her children, possibly as a mark of her love for them, said sources.

According to sources, Sushma had told the nurse that she needed the medicines for the stray dogs in her house as they had been barking a lot. The Ranes were dog lovers and at least three stray dogs lived on their premises.

"The post-mortem has not lead to any final conclusions about the cause of death. The doctors have preserved the visceras and we will wait for the final forensic report before saying anything about how exactly the deaths had occurred," said Neelotpal.

On whether Pramila had noticed anything amiss that day, Neelotpal said, "She was reportedly asleep till 8 am, and Sushma had returned home without Pramila noticing her. But Pramila had later called her around 11 am, to which she had responded."

"The suicide note, which was written by Sushma, mentioned that they were all embracing death as they couldn't see Dhiraj dying every day," said the DCP.

He, however, said that there was no definite lead about what exactly drove Sushma to take such an extreme step. "We are trying to understand it from the family contacts... theirs was a love marriage," said Neelotpal.

The incident took place on April 29 following which she allegedly tried to mislead the police by saying that her 65-year-old husband, a renowned physician, died after being unwell for a long time, they said.

The woman was arrested on Saturday after she admitted before police that she killed her husband, Deputy Superintendent of Police Shashank Jain said.

"We arrested the accused, a Chemistry professor with the Government Maharaja Post Graduate College here, on Saturday," Superintendent of Police Sachin Sharma said.

The official said the probe into the case suggests she doubted her husband's character, and due to this the couple used to have frequent fights.

Jain said during questioning, the woman told the police that on April 29, she mixed sleeping pills in her husband's food and after he fell unconscious, she electrocuted him with a live wire.

Earlier, she did not inform the police immediately about the incident and cooked up a story that since she and her son were unwell, they rushed to Jhansi in a private car for treatment on April 30 morning, police said.

She lodged a police complaint on May 1, saying her husband was unwell for a long time and died on the night of April 29, they said, adding that she came under the police scanner as she approached them two days after the incident.

"After extensive questioning, she finally admitted that she killed her husband," Jain said.

According to police, the couple used to have frequent quarrels and the doctor once complained to them that his wife had locked him in a bathroom at their home.

A mentally challenged son of the couple lived with them, Jain added.

Maharashtra: Trunk helps Thane cops solve murder case, brother-sister duo arrested

Fri May 14 2021

Thane: A red colour trunk in which the body of a man was found a couple of days ago in Thane district helped police solve a murder case leading to the arrest of a brother-sister duo, an official said on Saturday.

The body of the man was found in the trunk abandoned below a creek bridge on Shil Diva Road on May 13 evening, said Shil Daighar police station senior inspector CJ Jadhav.

"The victim could not be identified at the time and the only clue was the red colour trunk. After registering a murder case, a police team enquired with furniture and utensil shops in Mumbra and adjoining areas to get some clue on the trunk," he said.

The search led the team first to a shop in Turbhe and then to the trunk manufacturer in Dharavi Dabar compound, from where it got information that it was purchased by a woman on April 30, Jadhav said.

"We managed to identify the woman, who was a resident of Ghansoli in Navi Mumbai, and detained her. The woman confessed she and her brother had killed the man as the victim went back on a promise to marry her," he said.

While the victim was a driver by profession, the accused woman is a maid whose husband had died a year ago, the official added.

A woman in Madhya Pradesh's Bhopal confessed to killing her husband five years ago while she was being questioned about the death of her lover, who was her husband's brother.

The double murder came to light as the police were probing a death case in Bhopal's Kolar area.

On Friday, a body being eaten by pigs in Bhopal was discovered. During the police investigation into the incident, the victim was identified as Mohan, who lived in a slum area in Damakheda with his sister-in-law and her son.

Following the victim's identification, the police brought in the woman for questioning.

The woman confessed that the two of them had killed her husband because they wanted to live together. They buried the body in the house itself. Since then, she had been living with her brother-in-law, Mohan and her son in the same house.

However, due to recent fights between the two of them, the woman murdered Mohan with the help of her son. Her son then disposed of the body in the Kaliyasot river.

After her confession, the police on Saturday dug her house to locate her husband's remains and sent it for post-mortem.

He was charred to death.

According to the police, the two reported to the police on Friday he had died when the car accidentally caught fire. However, suspecting their version, the police probed the case and recovered CCTV footage in which Raja was seen trying to purchase fuel in a plastic can and confronted him. According to cops, Rekha was having an extra marital affair with Rangpara who worked as an agricultural labourer and the duo wanted to elope. But before doing so, they decided to eliminate Vaghela and they hatched a devious plan. On May 13, Rekha and her husband went to their farm for the night and as per the plan asked Bharat to come there at midnight. Bharat arrived at midnight and the duo strangled Vaghela in his sleep,” police said.

After committing the murder, Bharat returned to his home and as scripted, Rekha called up Ramesh and informed him that her husband died after getting accidentally trapped in a barbed wire fencing. Ramesh and others reached the spot and even as the family wanted to do an autopsy of the deceased, Rekha resisted their moves and asked them to cremate the body immediately.

revealed that he was brutally murdered. Sagar was a tailor and was living with his wife and two children — daughter Kavya and son Jay.

“When Sangeeta came to the police to lodge the missing complaint of her husband, we suspected her of cooking up a story. Her husband had gone missing on May 3 and she approached the police on May 10, which was unusual. So we grilled Sangeeta and her sister and they spilled the beans.

“Sangeeta told police that her husband was murdered by her paramour Sanjay alias Chhotu Paswan. Paswan lives in Madhapar and they were in love and wanted to get married. So, Paswan decided to eliminate her husband,” a police official said on Wednesday.

Paswan works as mason in Rajkot. “We are also probing the role, if any, of Sangeeta in this murder case. She told us that she was threatened by Paswan that if she tells anyone about the murder case, he would kill her and her children,” police added.

“On February 14, Jitendra met the girl at her house to celebrate Valentine’s Day. When her mother found out, she slapped her in anger. The woman then went to Jitendra’s house and complained to his parents. When his parents found that he was not home, the woman asked them to send him to her house when he returned,” an officer of the Link Road police station said.

The police said that Jitendra went to her house around 1pm on Friday.

“Meanwhile, the girl had spoken to Jitendra on his mobile phone and they planned to throw chilly powder into her mother’s eyes to avenge the slapping incident. When Jitendra arrived, the woman slapped Jitendra as well. After this, the girl brought chilly powder from the kitchen, which they both threw on her mother’s face,” the officer added.

After being partially blinded by the chilly powder, the woman started to grapple with them.

“Upon this, the two picked up a grinding stone and hit the woman’s face. When she fell, the two strangled her with a rope until she lost consciousness. Later the girl made up an alibi and called her neighbours, telling them her mother had fallen unconscious. The woman was taken to GTB Hospital but she had already died,” Rakesh Mishra, circle officer (Sahibabad), said.

When the police came to know about the incident, they investigated and questioned Jitendra and the girl.

“They both broke down and told us that they had been in a relationship for the past year and the girl’s mother had seen them together on Valentine’s Day. The girl’s father has given a police complaint, based on which we have lodged an FIR against both the perpetrators under the Indian Penal Code (IPC) Section 302 (murder),” Mishra added.

The girl is stated to be a student of Class 10 while Jitendra is a Class 6 dropout. They are neighbours.

Mon Jun 14 2021

An Indian man was allegedly brutally murdered by his distraught former girlfriend barely two days after his wedding to another woman in Jabalpur, Madhya Pradesh, India, local authorities said.

The deceased man has been identified as Sonu Patel, a resident of Gurji village under the Sihora Police Station limits in Madhya Pradesh, India. Sonu reportedly got married on May 14 and went missing on May 16, when he left home to get his mobile phone repaired, reported the Times of India.

The killing came to light when fragments of skeletal remains were found in the forests of Hargarh on May 24. The skeleton was reportedly scattered around the wooded area to make it seem the body was feasted on by various wild animals.

A postmortem examination revealed that the body belonged to a man. Sonu's family was shortly called to identify if the body belonged to the newlywed son.

While looking into Sonu's sudden disappearance, authorities investigated a woman named Madhu Patel, Sonu's ex-girlfriend, as a person of interest and suspect.

Sonu's wife reportedly told police that she had received a call from Madhu on the day her husband disappeared. The police checked the call details on Sonu's cell phone and found that the last call he answered was also from Madhu's number.

With the mounting evidence, Madhu was taken into custody and interrogated by law enforcement for Sonu's murder. During the initial questioning, Madhu reportedly confessed to the murder and admitted that she dumped the victim's body in the Hargadh Jungle with the help of her cousin, reported India Today.

Madhu further told the police that she killed Sonu because she was jealous and angry that he married another woman. She claimed that she called Sonu and arranged to meet for the last time at Hargarh forest on May 16; to which he had agreed.

When Sonu reached the forest, Madhu and her cousin proceeded to tie his hands and feet and gag his mouth before bashing him in the head with a boulder, resulting in his death, reported NewsTrack.

Madhu reportedly wanted to marry Sonu but her family had already arranged her hand in marriage with another man. Madhu claimed to police that Sonu had shot an objectionable lewd video of her and was threatening to reveal it to her family members if she did not cancel her wedding.

Both the accused and her accomplice cousin have been arrested, confirmed the police.

Commissioner of Police (Outer North) Rajiv Ranjan Singh said, adding a case of murder under Section 302 of the Indian Penal Code was registered.

During preliminary enquiry, it was found that Ray had been married to a woman named Rekha for 12 years when he met Sangeeta.

He had three children from his first marriage. Later, after coming to Delhi, he started staying with Sangeeta, who was a divorcee. The duo got married in 2017. Later, it was later revealed that Rekha had come to Delhi with the kids from their native village about three months ago and Ray left Sangeeta to be with her.

Sangeeta used to live in a nearby place in a rented accommodation. Rekha told police that Sangeeta had had a quarrel with Ray before the incident. That led the police to scan through the CCTV footage and to check their call records and Sangeeta became the prime suspect.

"After thorough interrogation, she committed to the offence. She said that her husband forced her for prostitution and also abused her physically and sexually," the DCP said.

She took him to the cremation ground, got him drunk and killed him with the help of her friend Nikhil, she said.

In a rather unusual incident, a woman stabbed her husband after she assumed that he had an affair with another woman. The confusion happened when she saw photos of him with a woman on his phone. What made the entire situation even more strange is the fact that the woman in the snap was none other than the wife's younger self. According to a report in Yucatan Magazine, Leonora N has been arrested by the police for the act. Her husband, Juan N has claimed that the photo his wife saw was from the time when the two of them were dating. He also added that back in time, they looked different as they were both "young" and "slim".

As per the report, the police officials found Leonora with the knife which she used to attack her husband. Juan informed the police in Sonora, Mexico, that he managed to save his life after he was able to snatch the knife from her. Moreover, the husband has apparently convinced her that he had gotten the old photos of the two of them digitalised and what she saw was one of those.

The incident has garnered all kinds of reaction on social media platform, Reddit. One person commented on the post, recalling his days of working with an AIDS hotline. He stated how he had to deal with a situation where a man was adamant on assuming that his wife was cheating on him. The person mentioned that when he used to work with an AIDS hotline in the '80s, there was an older man who called and insisted that his wife was cheating. The man felt sorry for the wife and told the caller, "Well, no wonder she's depressed, being married to you!"

Another user, who had earlier encountered a couple going through the same situation, said, 'I had this happen when I was doing legal work for a husband whose wife had advanced dementia.' He mentioned that though the story was sad, the whole family looked at the bright side of the dark humour when the woman always asked saw her younger self and asked her husband, "Are you stepping out on me?!"

A different person expressed how his friend's wife's reaction to the exact same situation was entirely different from that of Lenora's. Udupi Principal District and Sessions Judge J N Subramanya ordered life imprisonment to the three besides four years' rigorous imprisonment for destroying evidence.

The murder took place just two-and-a-half months after Shetty returned to India from the Middle East to live with his wife and son. After he went missing on July 28, 2016, his mother filed a police complaint on July 29. He was last seen leaving his hotel Durga International. The police recovered his footwear from his house and later a CID probe was instituted. It found that the hotelier was murdered for his wealth and the body was burnt at Niranjan Bhat's home. It was also said that Rajeshwari had an affair with Bhat.

The court acquitted Bhat's driver who helped dispose of the remains after the body had been burnt because he didn't know what the remains were. Bhaskar Shetty's DNA later matched with some bones recovered from a river where the remains were disposed of.

According to reports, some witnesses told police that Navaneeth had hit his father at the hotel following a dispute over properties on July 9. Shetty had reportedly said that he would bequeath his entire property to an orphanage but won't give it to his wife and son.

In the 20 years he spent in jail, Tiwari lost all his family members, according to a report in Times of India.

"The man will be released soon. It is unfortunate that he spent 20 years in jail for a crime he never committed.

We are now waiting for the formal release order," the report quoted VK Singh, Senior Superintendent, Agra Central Jail.

Tiwari, who is a resident of Lalitpur village, was accused of rape by a woman in the year 2000 from Silawan village which is 30-km away from his place.

The man was later booked on charges of rape, sexual exploitation, criminal intimidation of Indian Penal Code (IPC) and other sections of SC/ST (Prevention of Atrocities) Act. He was held guilty by a trial court and sentenced to life.

Tiwari was shifted to Agra Central Jail in 2003. The jail superintended has described Tiwari as a mild-mannered person who was attached to his family.

Tiwari used to cook food for inmates and supervise cleaning inside the prison.

In 2005, he decided to appeal against the verdict in Allahabad High Court. But Tiwari suffered another blow when his father stopped visiting him in jail as a result of his death.

Later, jail authorities approached the state legal service authority to appeal in the high court in 2020. In January this year, he was acquitted by a division bench of justices Kaushal Jayendra Thaker and Gautam Chaudhary.

The court in its judgment observed that there was a delay of 3 days in FIR, there were no injuries on private parts of the victim and there was a "motive on the part of the complainant" related to land dispute.

Bengaluru: An anonymous letter hinting at a possible murder helped the Benagulu Police in resolving the mystery behind the death of a businessman. The police said that the 52-year-old deceased - Mohammad Hanjala was killed by three contract killers who had been hired by his wife and son.

The wife and son had given 'supari' to three people to have Hanjala, who owned a footwear manufacturing unit in the city. The police have recovered three mobile phones and Rs 98,000 from the three contract killers.

Reports suggest that the mother-son duo chose to have him killed because he used to cast aspersions on the wife's character and had suspicious behaviour towards his daughters.

The wife, Sarvari Begum and son Rehman told the police that domestic disputes were also one of the reasons for his elimination. Begum then asked Rehman to contact the killers. However, on February 10, they told the neighbours that he had Hanjala had died of cardiac arrest, after which his final rites were conducted at the Tigalarapalya cemetery on the same day.

However, almost a month later, the police received an anonymous letter stating that it was a murder after which the police initiated a probe in which it was revealed that the mother-son duo had hired people to kill Hanjala. It was said that the 'gang' had however decided that they would kill him without resorting to violence. So, on the night of February 9, Hanjala was served dinner mixed with six sleeping pills.

On February 10, at 3:30 am, the gang then smothered him to death with the help of a pillow. Reports suggest that three suspects were arrested on Sunday while two were arrested on Monday. All have now confessed to their crime.

CAN ANYONE, ANY WOMEN ORGANISATION, WCD/NCW SHOW SUCH BRUTAL / HEINOUS MURDER COMMITTED BY MEN OF HIS WIFE OR HIS MOTHER-IN-LAW ON SUCH PROPORTIONS?

We collected above news from the major news media houses published in English language only, if we cover all crimes done by women and published in India's vernacular languages (some listed for reference below) news media and police investigations then this crime count will be 10 times more than what we have collected. In this article we published hundreds of news reports and we have more than 1000 plus more news articles which are in every regional language. NCRB shows death of Women within 7 years of her marriage as DOWRY DEATH, even if she was killed by her lover or own Family. NCRB shows such deaths in hundreds but none of the news media cover or try to analyse, nor anyone will find it any everyday newspapers, but anyone can find daily newspapers of husband murder in the hands of his own most trusted person, his wife.

If you see news listed above, most of the time women is the master mind behind the murder, harassment and abuse of the husband, but her vicious plans were executed by her lover/paramour or male member of her family. Manipulation and malintent are at the heart of most of these crimes.

It will be no wonder that once this article is published exposing the feminist agenda, the women wing sponsored and promoted by WCD/NCW may request the government of India to issue an executive order to the puppet media, not to cover any such news of Violence on men, because it's against their vested interests.

Women can commit more heinous and brutal crimes than men. They are most calculative, cunning in their moves, because in India they know laws are in their favor and they are very well aware how to get away with murders, claiming themselves as victim.

- If a man has sex on the pretext of marriage and doesn't marry, it amounts to rape, but the same law will not apply to women.
- Even if there is no physical or mental cruelty by her husband and his family, still a married woman can throw them behind bars under the Domestic Violence Act.
- Even within 7 years of marriage if women die at her Parents home, it's the husband's fault. He will be charged and burden of proof lies on him and women death termed as dowry death

- Under the Special Marriage Act, only the wife can claim permanent alimony and maintenance. Even if the woman earns more than the man, he still has to pay her maintenance.
- Child custody goes to the mother by default, even though law books says father is the natural guardian, to get even visitation father has to prove he is worth and capable. 99% of the times custody of a child to father is denied in India.
- Man has to maintain women, even she is working or capable to maintain herself and Man is unemployed or handicapped. There are judgments as “BEG, BORROW OR STEAL BUT PAY”

Men are abused, vilified, exploited and are expected to suffer in silence, while women, on the other hand, are treasured, protected and pampered. Every country in the world, and governments are pushing agendas for women's empowerment, making special provisions for women's reservations/schemes/funding and enacting gender biased laws in favor of women. More MEN are suffering at the hands of an abusive female - wife / girlfriend / live-in partner which leads to depression and suicide. Yet, strangely enough, hardly any studies have ever been conducted to research the psychological trauma that men have to face. Truly men today are under attack from all sides and the day is not far when to be born as a male will be considered the biggest curse and liability.

India is a land of Divide and rule, most of the laws made to control people, Government always wanted to control people with different tactics. Government of India never made any attempt to solve people's poverty or problems, they always used various laws to take from someone and give it to other who has not done anything to develop, build, secure it all started in 1972, as tenancy reform legislation, Land reform act, giving land to peasants/farmers taking from landlords. Later in 1979 West Bengal Women started to ask "If my husband throws me out, what is my security?" (personal communication, Vina Mazumdar, 1992) with this in Succession Act of 1956 and Amendment of 2005 gives rights to married daughters who has not helped to maintain or protect the property for more than 50 years also granted rights over it. When matter of Women/Daughter comes tenant or guardian of land who took care of it will not arise at all. This shows how government can twist laws and rules for their vote bank and hidden Agenda.

The above news list shows women are no less in crime and specially murders, but they have biased laws to protect herself and her interests. Most of the time women is beneficiary of the murders, even crime committed with the help of her paramour, she will be always taken as victim and her paramour made 1st party and punished more than her, and women will be out of jail in few years and she can enjoy her husband's (who was killed by her and was the victim) property too. In India women can easily find a man, and she can trap him in the name of love to commit all crimes and murders

NCRB SUICIDE DATA

Study on Men's Health and Suicide by Men addresses the following questions: Why do men commit suicide? How men are harassed? How legal terrorism is impacting their health? How do they suffer in silence? Why do they suffer in silence? How stressful life they lead, when they face abuse and humiliation at the hands of their beloveds. Most of the statistics collected demonstrate that there is a dearth of research on men's mental health or overall health, when someone is reported to be depressed due to marital distress or a stressful relationship, there is no government body or agency for men in distress to consult with, no funding earmarked to encourage any organization (governmental or non-governmental) to work for men's health issues or address their socio-economic problems or to support men in distress.

Worldwide around 800,000 people die due to suicide yearly, that's one person every 40 seconds. Of these 1,39,123 (18%) are residents of India. 70% of suicides are by men, and is mostly due to depression because of marital discord, which is responsible for their death. The overall male to female ratio of suicide victims for the year 2019 was 70.2: 29.8, which is more as compared to the year 2018 (68.5: 31.5). Globally, the suicide rate for men is twice than of women, that's 13.9 per 100,000 for men and 6.3 per 100,000 for women

In India, the marital status of suicide victims is observed at 66.7% (92,757 out of 1,39,123) of the suicide victims were married, which shows there is a problem with their marriage and family. As per NCRB 2019 reports, there are two major causes of suicides i.e., 'Family Problems' and 'Illness'. They also reported that Family problems and related issues were behind 32.4 percent of suicides, marriage related problems (5.5%), 70.2 were male and 29.8 females for every 100 suicide deaths. The NCRB collects national-level data from various sources. Almost 68.4 per cent of male victims were married.

NCRB report reveals that family issues, love affairs, drug abuse, mental illness appear as the top cause of suicide among the youth. According to the report, among people aged above 18 and below 45, family problems were the biggest reported cause of suicide. More importantly, the incidence of suicide due to family problems and mental illness is quite high in males but government of India strongly deny and ignore all these issues men face because of strong influence of women organizations, WCD / NCW who has vested interest.

Below statistics are collected from NCRB, see it to believe it. It's always 2 times more for men than women, that shows how much stress these married men face.

CONCLUSION

Married Men the forgotten gender in India. There are NCRB statistics of more than 50,000 married men committing suicide every year. There are news reports of men's suicide due to cruelty & harassment from their wives. There are news reports of men being murdered in large numbers. Yet, there is no Ministry for men, there are no laws for men and his family. All because the Men who are in power, forget their own gender and are busy appeasing women under the influence of Women originations for Vote Bank or other vested interests. Unless these Women organizations along with WCD/NCW who promote LEGAL TERRORISM in the name of women empowerment are made responsible for these crimes, and are stopped from defending these criminals and murderers, nothing will change. Government should take stand and amend all age old and gender biased laws to stop this genocide of men.

Indian men die in large numbers due to various reasons:

#1. If man stay in a troubled marriage he is harassed, murdered or forced to commits suicide due to the cruelty by the wife. The same can be seen from numerous news reports included in article above.

#2. If the man decides to get out the bitter marriage, the man is subject to a barrage of criminal cases under section 498a IPC, Dowry harassment, Domestic violence with no evidence along with lifetime slavery using section 125, HMA 24 maintenance laws even if women is highly educated, working or capable to maintain herself.

#3. Not only man is harassed and killed by wife but other women also can file False case of Rape, Outraging modesty, Sexual harassment, POCSO, MeToo etc; even she has not seen or met accused man. In these cases, burden of proof, proving himself innocent on men. But, for women one word of molestation is enough to file any of above cases. Indian law and Judiciary term every word of a women as Gospel of truth, because there is no accountability on judiciary or Police or law to punish women for filing false cases.

The above cruelty against men happens only because of Women ministry / organizations lobby and control over Government, judiciary and Police.

We strongly request the government of India and news media to stop portraying women as ABLA, innocent and victim of men. Crime has no gender; women are capable enough to commit crime equal to man. crime is a crime and punishment should be equal to all even if it is done by a woman.

THERE ARE MORE MURDERS AND SUICIDES OF INNOCENT MEN THAN ANY OTHER FATALITIES IN THE NAME OF WOMEN EMPOWERMENT. WE REQUEST THE UNITED NATIONS AND ALL OTHER WORLD LEADERS, ORGANISATIONS AND INSTITUTES WHOM WE FORWARDED THESE STATISTICS, TO RECOGNISE CRIME AGAINST INDIAN MEN USING MISUSE OF LAWS AS STATE SPONSORED GENOCIDE AND GOVERNMENT OF INDIA, MINISTRY OF WOMEN AND CHILD DEVELOPMENT(WCD), NATIONAL COMMISSION FOR WOMEN (NCW) HELD RESPONSIBLE FOR ALL THESE MURDERS AND SUICIDES. WE NEED A NEW INDIA WHICH WILL BE FAIR AND EQUAL TO ALL GENDERS. WE NEED GENDER NEUTRAL LAWS, GENDER NEUTRAL SYSTEMS IN PLACE.
